The seasons they go round and round. And the painted ponies go up and down. We're captive on a carousel of time. We can't return. We can only look back from where we came, and go round and round in

Students were caught up in a whirlwind of movement as they whizzed through the school year, involving themselves in a myriad of activities, both in school and out. Those Berries not pumping gas or flipping burgers in an effort to earn some extra cash kept themselves occupied by doing volunteer work, being active in church groups or community organizations such as Rotary. Sometimes they even resorted to doing homework. The new seven-period day meant more homework, allowing students less time to watch TV or chat on the phone.

Even with the extra workload, however, Berries jumped on the carousel of school life, going to dances held in the Berry Bowl, dressing up for Homecoming Week, backing the Berries at sports events, honoring their Distinguished Scholars, and whirling through an enchanted evening at the prom. Berries also kept the theater going round. Seniors produced Babes in Arms in May of 1984, and in November McHale Auditorium saw a new face as Lisa Terry Bowsher, active in community theater, took over the responsibilities of directing a cast of sixty in the Winter Fantasy production of The Sound of Music.

The year spun by, with freshmen growing more accustomed to the maze of halls, sophomores begging parents to drive the family car, juniors knocking on doors in an effort to beat records in the magazine drive, and seniors trying to pass required courses and still enjoy their last year of high school. Students visited college fairs held at selected schools such as Kokomo Haworth, Lafayette Jeff, and Plymouth. They also went round to campuses and spoke with college, trade school and armed service representatives in an effort to plan for a future that moved rapidly towards them.

Golden Memories

Carousel

A Logansport tradition

o for the gold ring! Giggling, happy children of all ages, throughout many generations, have found enjoyment whirling on the famous Carousel at Riverside Park. There's hardly a Logansport native who has not at one time reached for the golden ring in hope of a free ride.

The Carousel, built in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, was created by Gustav Dentzel. It resided there until 1919 when it was transported to Spencer Park, the end of the cable car line. Before the building in which it is presently lodged was built in the early 1950's, the Carousel had no protection against the elements. Due to the rotting of the organ within it, the original music has been replaced by eight-track tapes.

The Logansport Jaycees purchased the Carousel in 1972 for the community after it was abandoned in 1970 upon the death of its then owner, Laurence Chandler. Six thousand dollars was put into restoration at that time. Improvements made in 1972 included repainting the animals and general cleaning of the overall Carousel. In 1972, the community formed the Cass County Carousel Corp., managed by Eric Wolf. It was established to take over the responsibilities of the Carousel. Presently, the non-profit organization is trying to obtain funds to restore the Carousel and its 42 animals to its original quality of workmanship.

This prancing pony combined with happy children and spunky Carousel music sets the atmosphere associated with summer nights at Riverside Park.

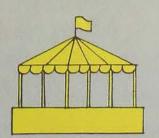

A favorite Carousel animal is this reindeer with antlers ideal for holding rings.

The land the Carousel sets on at Riverside Park is rented to the Carousel Corp. from the Parks Dept. The organization is also responsible for the hiring of their own employees. The building received a new coat of paint this past summer to improve its exterior appearance.

Changes at LHS

Pfister named principal

n July, LHS welcomed a new principal, Mr. William J. Pfister, a native of Huntington, Indiana, who had previously been principal at Lawrenceburg High School. His credentials include a bachelors degree from Ball State University and a degree in specialized education from Xavier University. He applied for the job at Logansport High School he said because of the large size of the school, the high standard of academic excellence and its overall good reputation.

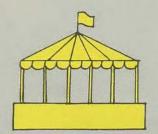

Early in his tenure as principal, Mr. Pfister altered the curriculum slightly by condensing the physical education classes to one year instead of two. He also changed the Driver's Education program by having the class meet during the school day rather than an hour before school.

Mr. Pfister was faced with the state's introducing new school legislation that required a minimum of 360 minutes of instruction time during the day. Excluded from this time were homeroom periods, passing periods, and lunch shifts. Fortunately, Logansport had a total of 365 instructional minutes, which allowed five more minutes each day to eventually be used towards pep sessions, school assemblies, etc.

Mr. Pfister enjoys sports and interacting with students. He says that in the future he would like to keep academic standards high and at the same time increase social activities at school. "You have to have a little bit of high school student left in you to be a high school principal," remarked Mr. Pfister.

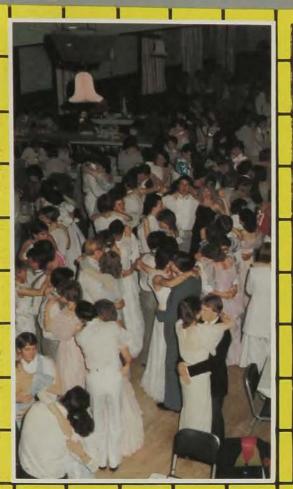

One of Mr. Gene Williams' new responsibilities as Assistant Principal is monitoring the halls between classes and overseeing the parking lot during the lunch periods.

"Pirates of the Caribbean" was the theme the juniors chose to portray on April 28, 1984. Led by cochairmen Angela Willison and Jeff Ditmire with the supervision of art teacher Mr. James Klaiber, juniors labored over decorations every weekday night for two and a half months. The decorations included nineteen hand-painted murals, treasure chests overflowing with gold, and 3-D scenery, including a seventeen-foot-long schooner complete with firing cannons.

The 151 couples were greeted by sophomore servers attired in pirate costumes.

Couples enjoy a slow song at the after-prom. Rotary served hamburgers and french fries.

Nightwind from Bloomington kept the students, their dates, and the chaperones dancing from 9:00 to 12:00 p.m.

Seniors Gary Clayton and Melissa Waltigney were voted King and Queen by juniors and seniors. The annual afterprom festivities took place at the Elks and were sponsored by the Rotary Club. The next morning many couples ventured to King's Island, Indianapolis, or elsewhere to complete their treasure-filled weekend.

To aid in the decorating of the prom and those of the future, the Class of '85 furnished part of the cafeteria with a false ceiling. Cochairmen Jeff Ditmire and Angela Willison prepare to paint the newly-finished ceiling.

Get A Job

Employed students

Berries bring home bucks

orking from 5 to 9 is very familiar to many Logansport students. In spite of the high unemployment rate, quite a few students have been able to take on the added responsibilities of a job.

Having a job offers many advantages including extra spending money, on the job experience, and most importantly, a sense of accomplishment. Most of these advantages tend to outweigh the disadvantages of having less free time and less time for school work.

Most students agree that having a job gives them the independence to buy or do things they otherwise couldn't afford.

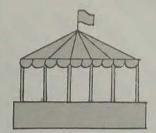

Jeff Hallam commented, "Having a job allowed me to repair my car and put gas in it after it was fixed."

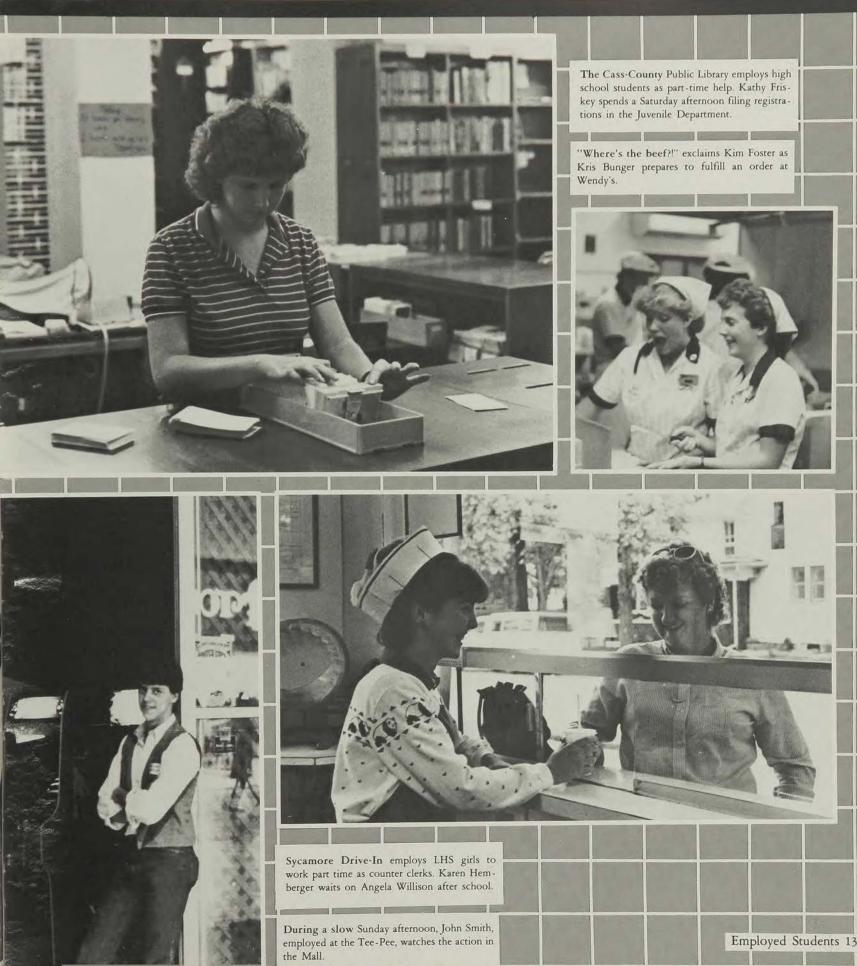

Carolyn Cowley enjoys her job as a newspaper carrier because, she says, "I meet a lot of people and get some good exercise."

New school rules have cramped the work schedules of students who would have otherwise modified out of school early. But all in all students have been able to work around this.

Homecoming

Baldini reigns as Queen

espite inclement weather, Berry spirit was red hot during Homecoming with Spirit Week, a pep rally, and the Homecoming game.

Due to rain, the annual powder puff football game between the junior and senior girls usually held at the stadium the night before was changed into a tugof-war contest held in the Berry Bowl. A crowd of nearly 400 watched as the seniors beat the juniors two games to one. The senior class also captured first place in the second annual float contest.

The events in the Berry Bowl ended with a pep talk from Coach Don Baldini and the announcement of the final queen candidates. The finalists and their sponsoring clubs were: Lauri Baker, Math Club; Jenny Baldini, Key Club; Suzi Calisto, Spanish Club; Kara Harris, OEA; and Sharon Smith, French Club.

Defense was the key in the Berries' overtime win against the Marion Giants on Friday, September 28. The game was scoreless at the end of the first half. The band and Berryettes performed to Lady. It was a chilling 45 degrees when Jenny Baldini was announced queen. The game remained scoreless to the end of regulation play, resulting in overtime. Logan got the ball first on Marion's ten yard line. Junior Chris Rozzi got the ball to the one yard line on the second down. On the third down junior Tom Williams ran the ball into the endzone for the touchdown. The Berries knocked down Marion's four pass attempts to secure the 6-0 victory.

Adorned with roses, sash, tiara, and gifts, all presented by Student Council, Jenny Baldini beams in happiness of being selected Homecoming Queen.

ou students are the elite, the select group of individuals who over the course of time have proven to be resilient. The very title Distinguished Scholar indicates that you have been successful over the past eighteen years of life," stated Mayor of Logansport John Davis to the twenty eight members of Distinguished Scholars.

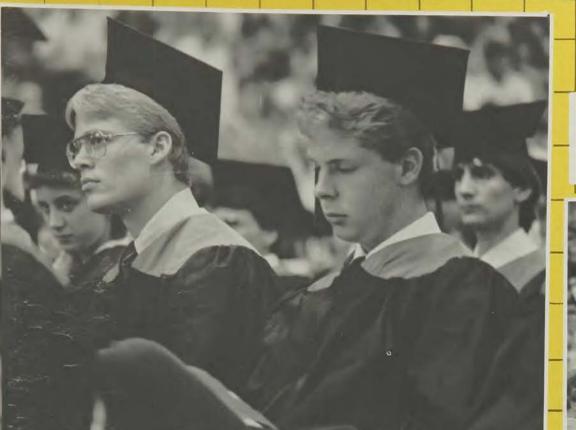

At 7:30 p.m. on April 23, 1984, the members of the Class of 1984 were ushered into McHale Auditorium for the annual ceremonies of the Distinguished Scholars Society. The junior members of the Student Council conducted the ceremonies. The scholars were welcomed by Lauri Baker and Jeff Ditmire, who served as mistress and master of ceremonies. Retiring principal Hugh Leeman made his final appearance at the ceremonies and encouraged the seniors to fulfill their dreams. Beth Beauchamp and Jodi King performed the ceremonial lighting of the three candles, representing knowledge, freedom, and desire. Mrs. Virginia Guckien, Student Council sponsor, presented the scholars a certificate acknowledging that each had maintained a 3.2 out of 4.0 grade point average over seven semesters. Mayor Davis concluded in his address: "You must pursue your personal talents to the limits of their possibilities, as young men and women in search of the American Dream."

To insure that future generations know of her achievement, Jennifer Fosnough signs her name in the Distinguished Scholar book.

Held on Saturday, May 26, 1984, this was the 113th Commencement Exercises at Logansport High School, and the eleventh performed in the present building. The front row was reserved for the senior class officers: President Scott Kitchel, Vice President Jeff Johanning, Secretary Kelly Miller, Treasurer Tosh Troglen, seniors who performed in the band during the ceremonies, and seniors who were selected by the English Department and principal to present the prayers and speeches during Commencement.

Tracey Van Horn opened the ceremonies with the traditional invocation, followed by Lynn Young conducting the high school band in 'Band for Fantasy'. The student addreses were next, featuring Jennifer Lesher's 'The Ruler of the World,' and Gretchen Smith's 'As Long as We Believe.' Highlights from Exodus were then performed by the band. School board members and Principal Hugh Leeman presented diplomas as professional photographer Rich Voorhees captured the moments on film. The traditional Halls of Ivy was conducted by Carl Current and led by Jill Hood and Bill Taylor. Young's benediction concluded the ceremonies.

Valedictorian honors were awarded to Kelly Miller for her 4.0 grade point average. Robyn Kline earned salutatorian distiction.

State Champions

Jordan, Hendricks win State

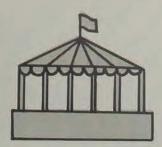

midst over 7,000 spectators in the IUPUI Natatorium, the girls' swim team captured three individual State Championships and many other top placings in their third place team finishing on November 17, 1984. This was Head Coach Robin Beck's best team standing and was also the first time that she had an individual state champion, let alone three in one year.

Jenny Jordan, a senior, had been a varsity swimming standout for four years, advancing each year to the state finals. Jordan holds four individual school records, two school relay records, and five North Central Conference records. She accumulated two MVP awards and two state championships and was undefeated in her individual races throughout last season. Her only defeat was in the 100 backstroke at the state finals when she finished third. Jordan captured the 200 individual medley state championship in 2:09.22, placing third last year. Jordan teamed with junior Stacy Iles and freshmen Heidi Hendricks and Krista Iles in the 200 Medley Relay to reign state runners-up, second to Elkhart Central. Hendricks, only a freshman, was the other Berry state champion. She became a state champion with record time. Hendricks won the 100 breast stroke with a time of 1:07.34. In Hendricks' other state championship, the 50 freestyle, her time was 23:73. Hendricks attributed her championships to her hard work and dedication, as well as spending the summer in Finland practicing.

Other outstanding finishes for the Berries were Stacy Iles' fifth place finish in the 100 freestyle and her fifth place in the 200 IM last year. Junior Teri Manning was the first Berry to advance to the state finals in diving. She ended up 20th.

As a team the Berries bettered last year's finish of fourth by tying for third with Columbus North. Anderson reigned as team champs for the second straight year, followed by Elkhart Central.

Jenny Jordan, who teamed up to win the 1982 400 medley relay State Championship, displays her 200 individual medley State Championship medal.

Steppin' Out in Style

Fads and fashions

Clothes, music reflect the Berry

ou're not wearing that are you?" This common complaint could be heard from mothers of students preparing for school in the morning. But once the last zipper was zipped and the last shoelace was tied, Logan students stepped into some of the hottest fashions around.

"A lot of the time my clothes express my mood," commented Rhonda Baldwin. Berries could be found cruising the streets of Logansport wearing sporty styles such as crop pants, jean jackets, argyle sweaters, brightly colored sweat shirts and plaid flannel shirts. For leisure and a sporty look, students could be found in sweats of all styles and colors. Chicks wers seen in crewneck sweat shirts sporting cartoon logos. Students stepped out in everything from plastic jellies to cowboy boots. Flats came back for girls in every style and color imaginable while many guys preferred boat shoes.

Some of the hottest sounds from the music world came from Van Halen, the Cars, Huey Lewis and the News, the Pointer Sisters, and Prince, who was nominated for 10 American Music Awards. Comebacks were made by Tina Turner and Bruce Springsteen with their albums, Private Dancer and Born in the USA, respectively. Newcomers Frankie Goes To Hollywood and Madonna, with the hit Like A Virgin, produced the upbeat sounds of '84. Students could be found listening to music in their cars or on their walkmans while waiting for the 8:05 bell. Senior Tom Erickson stated, "I like music that goes beyond meaningless lyrics; that's why my favorite group is U2. They deal with political and social issues that really make you stop and think."

Movies were still a popular pastime. Ghostbusters, Gremlins, Revenge of the Nerds, and Prince's Purple Rain were all box office successes. Tuesday nights, bargain nights at the local theaters, found students watching a movie and saving on fun.

With so few traditions remaining at LHS, the letter-jacket, like senior Jeff Ditmire's and junior Courtney Roberts', has survived the many trends of fads and fashions.

Students display footwear before making tracks to their next period class. Penny loafers, Converse hightops, cowboy boots, and boat shoes were among the favorites.

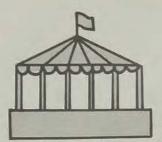

Driving to school gives Berries a chance to show off their cars and allows them to escape at lunchtime.

Regardless of the weather, students line the front of the State theater on Tuesday, bargain night, to view the latest movies for only $1.50.

During the week, students like junior Chris Rozzi found their night life consisting of hours of homework.

Dances and sock-hops proved to be entertaining as well as financially successful for the sponsoring organizations.

Foosball at Mr. Puttz became a favorite among such Berries as senior Darren Dillman, who watches his friends master the skills of the game.

'Hey, Dude, Let's Party'

Night Moves

Weekends add life to school

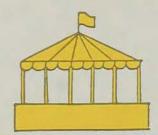

he 3:15 bell rings on a Friday amid shouts of "See you tonight!" and "I'll pick you up at 7:00!" After a long week of school, students made use of their weekend in many ways.

While sports were in session, students supported their Berry athletes on the field or in the Berry Bowl. Students enjoyed getting "radical" with friends as they urged the team on. After the game, one of the most popular "hot spots" was Cass Plaza; Noble Romans attracted hungry students looking for pizza and breadsticks. Next door, the newly-added Mr. Puttz provided video games, putt-putt golf, and a place for friends to meet. Movie theaters and the fast food strip on Highway 24 also ranked high among favorite places to go.

For many underclassmen, Showbiz Pizza Place featured dances, contests, and video games. Mr. Happy Burger, more commonly known as "Haps," was also frequented by students who were looking for a place to hang out. As Senior Sarah Blythe said, "It's the Smurfberry ice cream that keeps me coming back!"

For an occasional change of pace, students backed their talented peers by attending play productions. Those involved in the plays found their night moves revolving around McHale Auditorium night after night.

Partying made up for a large part of student activity during the weekend. Consumption of alcohol and other drug use was common among the teenage group, but the actual use varied among students. As Senior Glenda Huddleston stated, "I've noticed a drop in the amount of students' partying; it's probably because of the awareness of the dangers in it." Some of this awareness could be attributed to the state wide campaign against drunken drivers. Road blocks during holiday weekends to check for drivers under the influence discouraged many students from partying too hardy.

Europe or Bust

Twenty-six tour Old World

never thought that I'd see the day when I would be traveling throughout Europe," exclaimed senior Kim Howell. She and twenty-one other students and four chaperones visited Europe during June and July. Never before has such an entourage engaged in such foreign adventure.

According to French teacher, Mrs. Paulette Shilling, students should have had at least two years of French before she takes them to visit her homeland, a trip she makes every two years. This past summer's group with student teacher Mrs. LeVerta Walgamooth, was her largest contingent. They toured Paris for four days going to the top of the Eiffel Tower, viewing the Mona Lisa at the Louvre, and taking a midnight cruise on the Seine River. For the final four days, they were stationed in Angers, France, where they toured the northern countryside.

Beth Bradshaw was selected to perform with the Sound of America Ensemble as a member of the chorus. She performed in Germay, Austria, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, France, and England with over 300 other talented students throughout the United States. Bradshaw commented, "This trip was an event in my lifetime that I'll never forget! I recommend this very rewarding experience to anyone."

Miss Kathy Obenchain, history teacher, and Miss Dena D'Andrea conducted a group of students who toured England and France. The students were graduated seniors John Ball, Merritt Becker, Chris D'Andrea, Sandy Hilkert, and Jeff Johanning, seniors Lauri Baker, Cindy DeHaven, Kim Howell, and Mike Mohlman. They left on June 9 and arrived home June 16. Their highlights included the Arc de Triomphe and the Metro in Paris, and Buckingham Palace and the British National Museum in London.

Angela Willison had the opportunity to return to Ireland and England to visit her many relatives. She stayed in Ballybunion, Ireland, for twenty-six days and in London for the remaining ten. "It was great getting to see my relatives again," stated Willison. "I'd like to study in Dublin during my junior year in college."

Rising above the Paris skyline, the Eiffel Tower, which was built in 1889, was visited by all four Berty tour groups.

Mrs. Shilling's French contingent of Jeff Ditmire, Kathy Malott, Sam Bowyer, Mark Baker, Dan Duffy, Robin Peterson, Matt Chentnik, Steve Henderson, Lisa Spangler, and John Davidson pose in front of the Pompidou Center fountains in Paris.

Showing the enthusiasm of their whirlwind tour through London and Paris, Miss Obenchain's European tour group poses on top of the Eiffel Tower.

What's Happening?

In the News

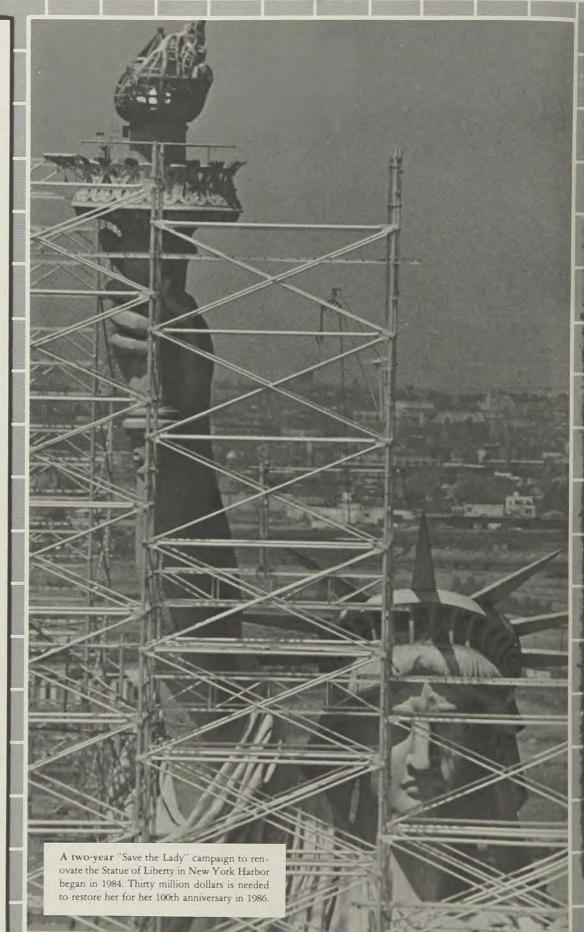

Elections, Olympics top headlines

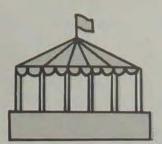

The Presidential race broke through discrimination. The Reverend Jesse Jackson campaigned to become the first black President. Walter Mondale chose Congresswoman Geraldine Ferraro for his Vice-President running mate, making her the first female candidate. On November 6, incumbent President Ronald Reagan won over Mondale by the largest electoral margin in history: 525 to 13. Locally, Bud Hillis was elected to his 11th term as U.S. Congressman, William Justice as state senator, and Tom Weatherwa as state representative.

Economics, an important political issue, made its mark across the country. The World's Fair in New Orleans was an economic disaster, soakng up over $350 million. Locally, several economic factors caused the closing of the 102-year-old Golden Rule department store in downtown Logansport on May 31, 1984.

Logansport residents were bit by the Trivial Pursuit bug as the game's national sales surpassed the 22 million mark. A future Trivial Pursuit question might read: "Who was the second recipient of an artificial heart?" Answer: Bill Schroeder from Jasper, Indiana. A Jarvik-7 articifical heart was implanted in Schroeder at Humana Hospital in Louisville on December 3.

In sports, 1984 meant an Olympic year, untarnished by a Societ-led communist boycott. The USA won 83 gold, 61 silver, and 30 bronze medals in the Los Angeles Games, breaking the 1980 Soviet record. Closet Chicago Cub fans finally had reason to celebrate as the Cubs captured their first NL East pennant in 40 years. The Club fell to the San Diego Padres 3-2 in game five of the NL Playoffs. Detroit then defeated San Diego four games to one to reign as world champions. The Baltimore Colts football team moved to Indianapolis in late summer, giving the Circle City their long-awaited professional athletic team. min

"There he goes again!" President Ronald Reagan and First Lady Nancy rejoice about his re-election to office.

Winter Fantasy

Bowsher brings McHale alive

mid rumors that there would be no Winter Fantasy, a director was finally found and McHale Auditorium came alive with the "Sound of Music" on November 17-19. Lisa Terry Bowsher accepted the role as director after offers to faculty members were turned down. Her involvement with Junior Civic Theater for five years proved to be valuable, as she had worked with many of the children cast in the play.

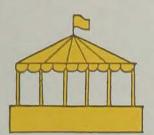

Because of these complications, the play was cast later in the year than usual. Directors Bowsher, Tim Cahalan, Robert Shovlin, and Pat Buchanan chose 60 students to fill the roles of the famous Rogers and Hammerstein production. Nearly 120 students auditioned on September 26, the only night of tryouts, as opposed to previous years' two night tryouts.

The mountains of the set loomed over the cast and became symbols of the struggles that cast, crew, and directors endured. Among other things, the student in the lead role of Capt. vonTrapp was replaced by his understudy, Steve Gwin, two nights before the opening curtain. "The play got off to a late and slow start; however, I felt the final performance was the best one of all. Everything went together beautifully," stated senior Beth Bradshaw, who portrayed Maria. The cast did indeed 'climb every mountain" and gave the community sell-out performances on Friday and Saturday nights. Monique Samuels hosted the Friday night cast party in her home. Beth Bradshaw's home was the site of the cast party Saturday night, upholding the tradition of the lead hosting the final cast party.

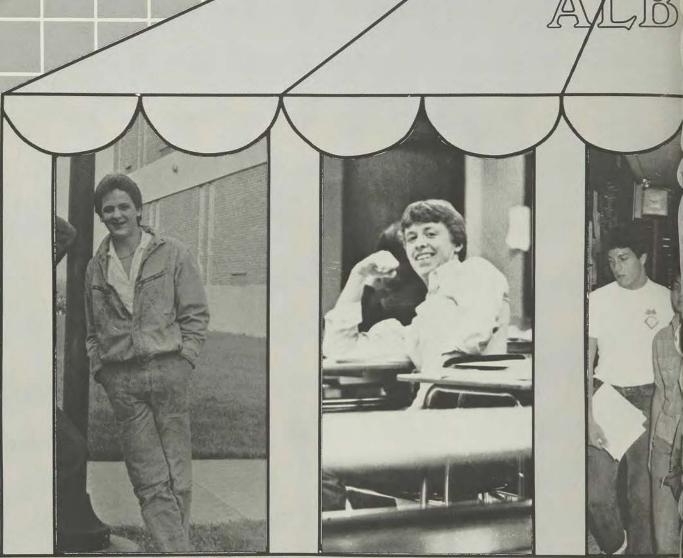

The news of Elsa Schraeder's (Sharon Smith) engagement to Capt. VonTrapp leaves Max Detweiler (Kelly Dora) questioning how love can survive.

Sister Bertha (R — Beth Wagner) listens to Mother Abbess' (Sarah Blythe) doubts about Maria.

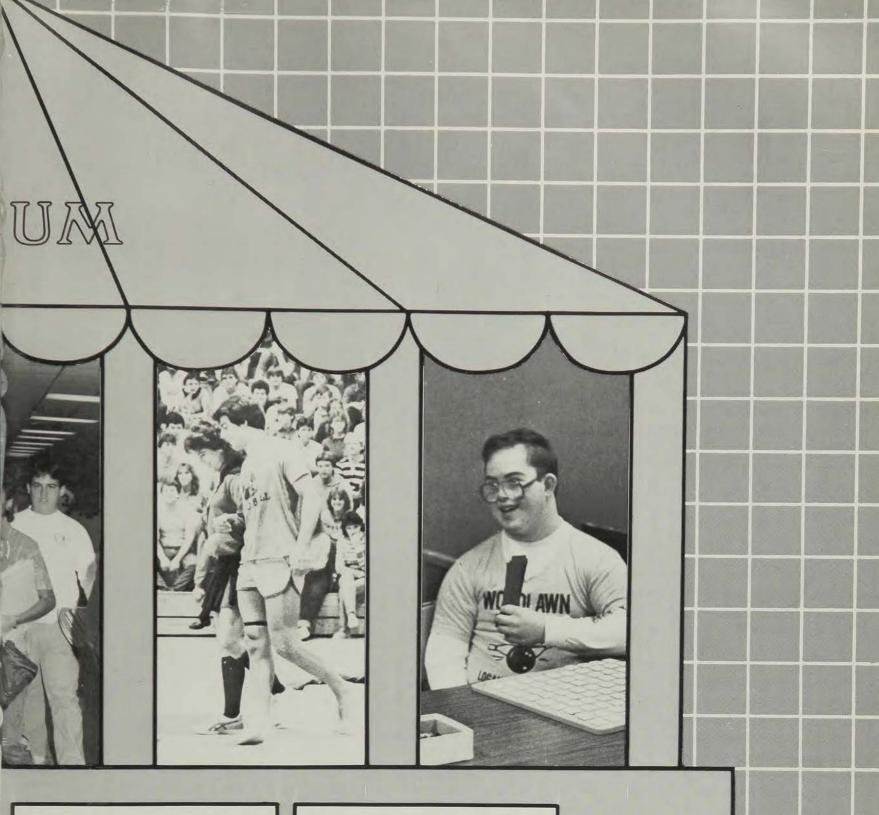

Maria (Beth Bradshaw) immediately wins the hearts of the von Trapp children, especially Gretl (Lisa Hillis), with her love of music.

S eniors' minds began whirling in May of their junior year when senior portrait pamphlets from the two local studios, Voorhees and Harrington, were distributed during homeroom. Seniors spent much time deciding when and where they should make appointments to get their pictures taken. Ninety-three per cent finally decided on one of the two local studios.

Unlike the seniors who had to decide where to pose for their pictures, undergraduates' only problem was remembering which day their portraits were scheduled: September 19, 20, 21, or 24. The movement of students in and out of classrooms sent pupils and teachers in a whirlwind as they tried to remember when each of their respective homerooms was assigned to get their mugs taken. Principal Pfister could be heard announcing over the intercom on the final day, "Will all the undergraduates who have not gotten their pictures taken please report to the audio visual office so that I don't personally have to escort you there?"

Cost, of course, was a factor for Berries as they considered which portraits to buy. Seniors had the opportunity to purchase "packages" and get any quality of pictures they wished, even though the cost always seemed to be exhorbitant since they passed out so many wallet-sized pictures to friends. Underclassmen could purchase their pictures in home-room for \$4.75 a packet, which included one 5x7, four wallets, and nine $1\frac{1}{2} \times 2$.

A carousel of faces filled students' wallets and picture albums, for what better way to remember school friends?

Whirling amid the years

On June 1, 1985, 258 seniors assembled for the last time as a group. Whirling amid the years in happiness and sorrow, we remembered things like freshman orientation, making appointments for class schedules, prom workshops, and we anticipated events that were yet to come like college, marriage, and children of our own. We tried to forget the things which pained us the most like Weaver tests, psychology and government classes, and coming to school at seven o'clock in the morning to order caps and gowns for graduation.

Leading us through it all were our class officers: Jeff Ditmire, president; Sam Bowyer, vice president; Susie Hess, secretary; and Stephanie Smith, treasurer.

Exchange students go through life at LHS

Going through the up-and-down, merrygo-round life at LHS was both exciting and confusing for four Berries who came from places all around the world. From the continent of Asia came Nitin Kanase. Europe sent the only female foreign exchange student, Ute Koch from Germany. South America yielded the two students who played on the Logansport soccer team, Ed Mosca and Maurice Medinaceli Claure from Uruguay and Bolivia, respectively.

These students filled out questionnaires pertaining to their country and the United States. Below are their responses to those questions:

WHAT IS YOUR FULL NAME AND WHEN WERE YOU BORN?

- Maurice: Mauricio Medinaceli Claure, September 10, 1966. Nitin: Nitin Baliram Kanase, Au
 - gust 14, 1967. Ute: Ute Koch, December 7,

1966. Ed: Eduardo Amar Mosca Ferro, October 31, 1968.

- WITH WHOM ARE YOU STAY-ING?
 - Maurice: Roger Spencer, 1619 High Street.
 - Nitin: David Wihebrink, 3714 Valley View Drive.
 - Ute: Don and Sue Strasser, 37 Lux Street.
 - Ed: Jerry and DeeDee Bond,

3010 High Street. HAVE YOU BEEN TO THE UNIT-ED STATE BEFORE AND WHAT DO YOU THINK OF IT?

- Maurice: It's a nice country with all the opportunities. It's teaching me that life is stronger.
 - Nitin: No, I have not been here before. I love this country. It's wonderful.
 - Ute: I've never been here before.
 - Ed: I hadn't been here before, and I really like it.

Scott Heads State Party

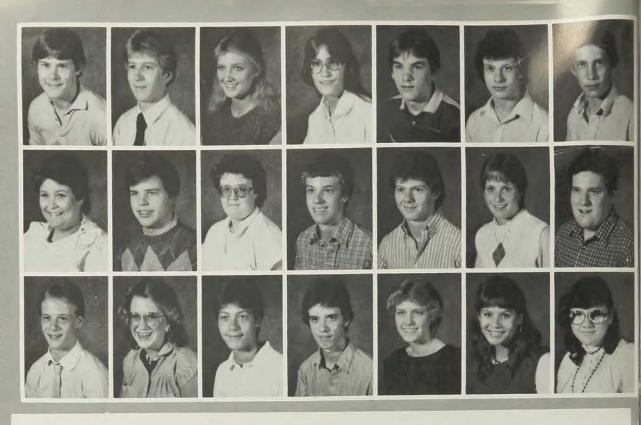

Government and party procedures for the state of Indiana were stressed during the Hoosier Boys' State held June 2-9, and Girls' State held June 10-17. Heidi Landen, Angela Willison, Jeff Ditmire, and Mark Scott represented LHS at the seminars held at ISU in Terre Haute.

Scott was chosen the State Chairman for the Federalist Party. With 450 boys attending Boys' State, Scott headed 225 during party caucuses. He also held the elected position of House Representative and minority speaker of the House. Ditmire served the elected position of county chairman. Ditmire's city ended third out of 16 cities in the Honor City competition. Willison held the appointed position of city attorney and led the Nationalist Party members of her city as city chairman. At the end of the week, she was chosen by her city as the recepient of the citizenship award and was also awarded the Martha Johnson Scholarship. Landen served as a city councilman and backed her fellow Federalist Party to claiming the Governor's position.

Whose property is it?

A much debated issue in schools across the country was that of locker searches. The Supreme Court ruled that school officials need only reasonable grounds to search a locker. If there were reason to believe a student violated laws or rules of the school, teachers or officials could search a locker without a warrant. Two such searches were conducted at LHS last year. This action prompted many students to ask: Are lockers the property of the students or of the school? Do students have the right to put whatever they want in their lockers? Do school officials and police have the right to search these lockers?

The junior class was polled by the Tattler staff with more than three-fourths of the students in favor of such searches. The average response seemed to be that if one had something to hide, he or she deserved to get caught.

Juniors set high sales mark

Juniors hit the community from October 18-31, selling magazines to raise money for the prom and to help send students to summer journalism workshops. Class pride and other incentives such as prize televisions, typewriters, and luggage encouraged students to sell. There were also mystery houses which were selected by sponsor Jack Rice before the contest. Students who sold to members of these homes received ten dollars, and the participating household received a free year's subscription to Reader's Digest. The junior class set a school record, topping even their own goal of $27,000, with a high of $30,000.

Question Lugar

Courtney Roberts and Tom Williams attended Lugar's Seminar for Tomorrow's Leaders, held December 1, 1984, at Indiana Central University. At the seminar they heard experts debate current issues. Students were able to ask numerous questions of Senator Richard Lugar, who, according to Roberts, stressed mainly the importance of education.

Safety First

In auto racing, safety is not always the most important rule. However, it is of utmost importance in Driver's Training. Instructors Joe Patacsil, Jim Turner, and Dale Sullivan try to instill this in every new driver's mind.

Driver's Training classes met every day for the first three weeks of school, and for the remainder of the semester, the class met once a week. A $21.50 fee was paid by each student to help defray the cost of maintaining the two cars.

Coach Rich Wild said, "For a freshman, Mike showed above average ability in both pitching and hitting. He may be able to help our varsity as a sophomore."

An Indiana State Law requires every student in the 10th grade and all the students new to the school to have a hearing test. According to audiologist Barbara Lozier, when a problem is detected, she gives a more complete test. If necessary, she refers the student to a doctor.

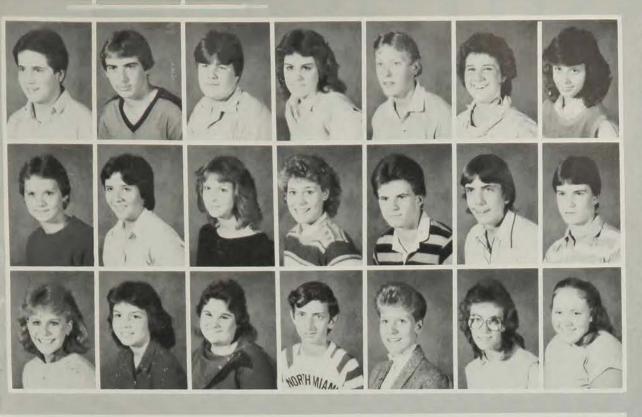

On September 6, 1984, 209 sophomores had their hearing tested in the library. Mrs. Connie Dunn, JSSE secretary, hands out medical cards.

What's the verdict? Frosh polled

In February a House Education Committee approved a bill designed to prevent school dropouts estimated last yeat at 12,300 pupils in Indiana alone. A measure that would require school attendance until age 17 was forwarded to the full house by an 8-1 vote.

Tattler asked some freshmen what they thought of the bill. They replied:

Alison Frederick: "Yes, someone would have a better chance to get at least one more year of education."

Wade Gault: "No, kids should have the freedom of choice."

Amy Johnson: "Yes, maybe if we stay in school until we're 17, everyone will learn how to read and write."

Kenny Henderson: "Yes, I think that everyone should be required to get a high school diploma."

Dawn Popejoy: "No, if the kids don't want to go to school, they'll do something to get suspended."

Rob Noel: "No, a thousand times, no!" Valerie Vanata: "Yes, nobody at 16 is mature enough to make a decision that will affect them for the rest of their life."

Kevin Wild: "No, people aren't going to learn anything in just one more year."

tudents' minds whizzed as an array of organizations, clubs, and activities kicked off the year with callouts, get-acquainted parties, bonfires, and elections that were planned to get the student body involved in more than just the 8:10 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. class schedule.

It took but a short time for the more ambitious Berries to quickly find themselves bogged down with decisions such as whether or not to run for class elections or to try out for cheerleading. Many students who did get involved in extracurricular activities seemed to have a way of over-extending themselves. Even though they complained of too much to do, they were hardly ever willing to drop an activity. Something else was usually sacrificed: grades.

"LHS has a wide variety of activities suitable to each student's likes and interests," commented speech teacher Pat Siefert. And one of the most rewarding of these activities seemed to be the plays. Senior Beth Bradshaw remarked, "Plays are the greatest! I'm involved in a variety of activities, but the closeness formed among cast members during all those rehearsals just can't be beat!"

Club bulletin boards and the daily announcements kept club members informed of speakers, field trips, and various activities, such as the after-school Dessert sponsored annually by the French Club.

Activities such as Tattler, band, and choir were allotted class periods, but students in these activities didn't receive full credit as in other academic classes. Unfortunately, members of these organizations spent much of their time outside of school marching in football games, performing at choir programs, and working long, grueling hours to meet deadlines.

Tattler staff goes for it

The 1985 Tattler started to take form on a starry evening in May of '84 at the home of assistant editor Angela Willison. At the annual theme selecting party, the staff tried to work out a theme that would include the local Carousel at Riverside Park, which is currently being renovated. After three hours of deliberation, the staff voted for "LHS Goes 'Round." Adviser of six years, Debra Rivard commented, "This theme tied the community of Logansport with the high school. I feel that our yearbook will appeal not only to our school but to the community as well!" From the moment the theme was chosen, the Tattler staff was spinning, trying to produce a book that might secure a gold ring for them, the coveted All-American status from the National Scholastic Press Association. The previous yearbooks had come close with a First Class rating and two marks of distinction. "We have another super staff this year," stated editor-in-chief Jeff Ditmire. "We are going for an All-American!"

The book began to take shape with a cover designed by Ditmire in June, and the theme was carried through onto division pages designed by Ditmire that won best lay-out awards at an American Yearbook workshop at Manchester College. Courtney Roberts and Jane Hendrickson were finalists for best lay-out design, and Mike Luxenberg won best photograph. Tammy Dalton, Liz McCleery, and Rob Morter also attended the June workshop. The Logansport contingent was awarded the "Rowdiest Greeks" honor for their enthusiastic participation during the four-day stay. "We became close during the workshop and left determined to do our best for our section," stated Dalton.

From the first deadline on October 15, to the final one on February 26, the staff put in hundreds of overtime hours to accomplish their goals of learning responsibilities, forming new friendships, and producing a coveted All-American.

Enter Magpie

Adviser Jim Closson and his senior staff, with the help of fourth period journalism class, published the newspaper, the Magpie. They incorporated new design and layout techniques facilitated by the use of a newly purchased computer. Closson confirmed, "When we came up with an idea for a new letterhead, we used the computer for better efficiency."

The student body became involved in December with an invitation to submit original drawings, poetry, or prose writings that were then judged by the eight staff members and Closson. First place honors went to Chris Rozzi, drawing; Lisa Spangler, poetry; and Scott Pugh, prose. Julie Richards achieved second distinction in drawing; Tony Graf and Brenda Dillon in poetry; and Helen Fernung, prose. Brenda Dillon, Heather Castell, and Travis Minnick won third place in drawing, poetry, and prose, respectively. All winners were honored by the publication of their works in the Christmas issue.

This year's editor in chief was Diane Rhode, and her assistant was Christie Smith.

Journalism students Dave Buck and Jeff Branum sell the Christmas issue of the Magpie to Tony Scagnoli and Shelly Barrett.

Business Manager Beth Beauchamp smiles with approval at associate Jane Hendrickson as the two design layouts for the Ad. section of the Tattler.

SERVICE

Key Club means service to others

Key Club International is the world's largest high school organization of its kind with over 105,000 members. Sponsored by Kiwanis International, its main objective is to serve mankind in school, church, and community activities.

The fifty-one members of the LHS Key Club sponsored many activities, ranging from the back-to-school dance in August to the Leadership Banquet in May. They initiated new projects such as raking leaves and donating their $200 proceeds to the Cancer Society and reporting election results for the News Election Service on November 6. For International Key Club Week, November 411, they sponsored a can drive, donating the cans of food to the Salvation Army. Key Club assisted the Logansport Kiwanis Club with their Peanut Day fund raiser. On December 21 "Asylum" was featured in Key Club's third annual movie fest in McHale Auditorium. On April 15 the group sponsored Good Government Day. The student body elected a mayor, clerk-treasurer, city judge, and council members, who then spent the day working with the Logansport city officials.

Members traveled to the Radisson Plaza Hotel in Indianapolis during the weekend of April 13-15 for the 33rd District Convention. Logansport members Rob Reason and Jeff Ditmire were honored as District Secretary and Lt. Governor of Division Three, respectively. Ditmire also presided as chairman over the convention's 400 participants. The LHS Key Club came away with many awards and trophies. They were named the 1984 second most improved Key Club in the district.

President Mark Scott was responsible for the inception of a board of directors, which included Vice President Ditmire, Secretary Kyle Bitterling, Treasurer Mike Martin, Historian Reason, frosh representative Andy David, sophomore Eric Jordan, junior Mark Baker, and senior Jeff Hallam. These members served as a governing body for the club.

Paint Your Wagon? No, it's Key Clubber Gary Chambers painting door frames as a service to LHS. A group of ten members worked all day to complete the project.

DRAMATIC ARTS

Bringing out the best

Thirty aspiring Drama Club members, armed with talent and ambition, sprang a new idea, the Mousetrap. For the first time, students acted in, directed, and produced a play that toured to area high schools. Male lead Scott Ridenour exclaimed, "I never dreamed that our idea would work, but when we traveled to Peru, the play was a great success!"

After two months of rehearsals, on January 10, 11, and 12 the Mousetrap cast and crew presented their interpretation of Agatha Christie's drama in two acts to crowds of over 50 in Logansport, Peru, and Kokomo, respectively. The play was a murder mystery set just outside of London with an ironic ending that had a police detective being the villain. Junior Courtney Roberts commented, "The mystery was made real by the high quality of acting and Christie's excellent plot."

In addition to this new project, on December 22 the club took a group of ten to the Chicago Auditorium Theater to see Dickens' A Christmas Carol.

Nuffle incites team success

Nuffle, Nu-ff-le, NFL so that's why the National Forensic League's mascot is named Nuffle. In 1974 Debbie Kinder made the first speech team mascot in the state when she stuffed a black pillowcase and sewed a face on it. The original Nuffle retired to Florida in 1980 with former speech teamer Rusty Watts, but he was replaced by the son of Nuffle in 1981. Traditionally the mascot is temporarily awarded to an elected "Lip of the Week" after each tournament. This outstanding member then has the honor of adding any unique ornament to Nuffle Jr.'s body. Jenny Shoemaker confirmed that Nuffle "Jr." motivates us when we're down." He really helps us to achieve success."

This year success began in June when Kelly Dora and Coach B.J. Siefert traveled to San Antonio for the National Speech Tournament. "Although I didn't place, it was a great exeprience," stated Dora. On November 17 the team won the Lafayette Jeff meet, competing with over 15 other teams. Also in November Logansport placed second out of 23 at the Decatur Central tournament. "The Lafayette Jeff meet set the pace for the whole year," stated coach Siefert; "the talent was there and we developed it." The team continued to place well through spring when they sent 20 members to districts held in Indianapolis.

Weather delays production

On the night of February 12, Logansport was hit by a blizzard. Unfortunately, that was the original date set aside for Thespian Troupe No. 1577's dress rehearsal for the "Miracle Worker." Because of the unfavorable conditions, the rehearsal was postponed until Friday, February 15, which cut the regular three performances for the public down to two Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. Despite the weather the "Miracle Worker" drew a near capacity crowd.

William Gibson's drama in three acts recounted the story of Annie Sullivan's patience and persistence which enables her to teach a child with two handicaps, Helen Keller. Director Ken Draza commented, "In the play Annie achieved a new level of maturity and in the cast, each performer developed a mature acting attitude."

The sets were made at McHale by Thespians, cast members, and other interested students, and then sent to Chicago to be painted by an artist there. Shop foreman Scott Baumgardner stated, "The student-made sets were a success. In fact, this year was the first time that a majority of the action took place on a second floor. I was just glad that no one fell through."

Twenty three dramatically-inclined Berries received Thespian memberships after they dedicated 100 hours of their time to theater work. These new members, along with the 22 veteran Thespians, co-sponsored the Academy Awards with Drama Club on May 16. Best actor and actress awards for 1984 went to Gary Clayton and Shelly Barrett, respectively.

MUSIC DEPARTMEN

Rube on call

Comprised of twelve of some of the most unique male musicians representing LHS, Rube Band performed "on call" around the community. The group, selected by Director Robert Parente, practiced after school every day starting a week before a concert. Some of the band's annual engagements included entertainment at the Homecoming bonfire, at the Elk's Lodge, before the Halloween parade on October 30, and a December trip to Camelot Care Center.

In step, in tune

Formed over thirty years ago by then Band Director Joseph Huffman, the Swing Choir is still a vital part of the rich musical tradition at Logansport High School. Every morning at seven, the twenty-two members practiced their singing and dancing routines in the choir room. They did this in order to perform for many organizations, sororities, and social activities such as the PTA, Elks, and an annual competition with groups of their like in Indianapolis. "It was a great experience for me to perform like we did," stated senior Beth Bradshaw. "It'll come in handy when I pursue my musical career."

Dancin' to the beat

Many students think the only activity of the Berryettes is providing entertainment during halftime of home football and basketball games; however, the Berryettes represent LHS at various community functions such as the Iron Horse Festival in July. In addition to performing in Logansport, the group traveled to Taylor University with the band on October 13 where they entertained at halftime. The squad practiced every day during the newly created seventh period, preparing a variety of routines choreographed by sponsor Pat Buchanan. Their favorite routine was set to the tune of Maniac, and their favorite costumes were the traditional black leotards with gold vests.

Banded together

Jazz Band just completed their forty-seventh year with a group of about twenty musicians selected by Director Tim Cahalan. This year they debuted at Parents' Night on October 15. The band performed at a basketball game in December. Saxaphone player Jenny Jordan commented, "We are proud of the music we play, and being singled out to perform at halftime is really important." In December the Jazz Band played a concert at Woodlawn Center. Finally in March the group's most talented members joined with part of the Marching Band to form a squad of sixty musicians who performed during halftime of a Purdue University basketball game.

Early birds stay active

Mark Scott called the first Student Council meeting to order at 7 a.m. on September 4. A new state regulation caused the group to meet before school instead of during class as in the past.

Student Council sponsored the second annual float contest for Homecoming in September. Representatives from each class constructed an entry, but the senior class won with their "Giantbusters" idea. Vice President Tony Scagnoli designated the theme for Homecoming to be "Revenge of Spirited seniors present the winning "Giantbusters" float entry at the Homecoming pep rally.

the Nerds," and on September 28, the day of homecoming, spirited Berries dressed as their favorite nerd.

The November Winter Fantasy production of The Sound of Music was sponsored by the council, with each member signing up for one of the committees. Other annual activities included the Challenge Bowl in February with 1984 winners Robyn Kline, Mark Scott, Jennifer Fosnough, Mike Lovell, and Janey King, the Mr. Legs Contest with Merritt Becker coming off with the honors of having the nicest pair of legs, and the Distinguished Scholars Ceremony in April.

Each month a member volunteered to decorate the student council bulletin board. Sophomore Colleen Hollibaugh arranged an especially artistic display for Christmas. A new idea presented by the group was the reincarnation of a school flag. Tom Shannon located a picture of the original flag designed in 1963, and a committee headed by Jeff Ditmire ordered a flag patterned after the original from Dick Sanburn's.

Officers were President Mark Scott, Vice President Tony Scagnoli, Secretary Laurie Baker, Treasurer Jeff Ditmire, and Historian Kim Stuart.

comes Photo Club

November 7 marked the eighth consecutive year that Photo Club joined with Art Club for a picnic at Spencer Park. Members played football, ate potato chips and hot dogs, and talked with friends as officers and advisers planned the activities for the year.

At one of the regular meetings held on the first Wednesday of each month, adviser Dale Sullivan explained, "Photography Club is half social and half technical." A seasonal picture contest motivated students to perfect their technical skills. Rusty Deichman, a junior, won the competition with his pictures of Washington D.C.

In May Photo Club renewed its partnership with Art Club when they met at Ponderosa for a banquet celebrating spring.

Officers were President Cindy DeHaven, Vice President Mike Luxenberg, Secretary Danielle Cooper, and Treasurer Lynne Spencer.

Leo Tolstoy once said, "All art has this characteristic: it unites people." This statement held true for Art Club members who joined together for such projects as painting merchants' windows for homecoming. Members then voted for the best drawing and the best idea. Julia Richards, Mike Rothermel, Angie Howard, Bill Elpers, and Dennis Medbourn won a set of art pens for their drawing painted at Logansport Paint

Oh la! la!

French Club had its largest membership ever with 81 students. One of these was foreign exchange student Ed Mosca, who spoke about cultural differences between the U.S. and his native Argentina at the first meeting on September 26. Also in September members attended a bonfire at Steve Henderson's house where they played French word games as they roasted hot dogs and marshmallows. On November 14 the club provided such French favorites as mousse au chocolat, quiche lorraine, and les beignets for over 75 faculty, staff, and foreign language club members who were served at the annual dessert held in room 7107.

Christmas brought a chorus of members caroling door to door in French. They stopped at such places as the home of Mr. Pfister, the principal, and Camelot Care Center. The club celebrated Epiphany on January 6 by baking the traditional gallet (a flat, round, doughy bread) and by electing le roi (the king) and la reine (the queen) of the New Year. Finally, on April 15 students traveled to Chez Jean, a French restaurant in Indianapolis.

German Club membership grows

German Club was different this year as the membership rose from thirty-five to the present fifty-three. Advisor Tom Wortman attributed the increase to the many activities added to the club's agenda.

The first event was a bonfire held at Mike Lovell's house on October 4. Students ate bratwurst and listened to German music. Mr. Wortman brought many different songs with such titles as "Die Berge sind meine Sehnsucht" (The mountains are what I long for), sung by Bavarian Yodler Thomas Scholl.

Other activities throughout the year included the annual Faschingsball held in February, a costume party celebrating Mardi Gras, sampling of German candy at a January meeting, and an end-of-the-year banquet held in the high school cafeteria.

Latin lives

Although Latin is a "dead" language, the Latin Club was far from being dead. In addition to their annual bonfire held in September, club members experienced ancient Roman customs when they celebrated three major holidays: Saturnalia (Christmas), Lupercalia (Valentine's Day), and the Roman Banquet (May Day). Also, study in culture was led by advisor Carolyn Killion who donned tunic and toga for her portrayal of Livia, the third wife to the first Emperor of Rome at a meeting in October.

Officers were Consul Wes McClure, Consul Kathleen Copenhaver, Secretary Kevin Hemberger, and Treasurer John Bingaman.

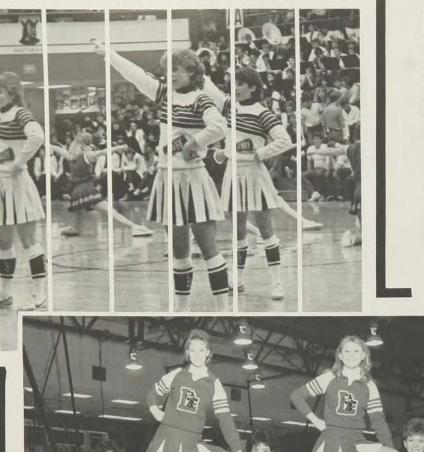

Group enlightened

Two members of Spanish Club, sponsored by Miss Joan Ewing, were foreign exchange students Maurico Medinaceli and Ed Mosca, from Bolivia and Uraguay, respectively. An October meeting featured Medinaceli and Mosca as guest speakers.

Held on the third Wednesday of each month, meetings featured a variety of activities. Members learned that the word "bingo" is universal as they played the Spanish version at the November 21 meeting. At the Christmas party held at Cindy Calisto's house students played more Spanish games and celebrated by breaking a pinata.

Officers were President Cindy Calisto, Vice President Vanessa Isaccs, Secretary Janelle Foust, and Treasurer Ed Mosca.

Cheerleaders more than "a pretty face"

Everyone thinks he knows what it's like to be a cheerleader. Impressions of the typical pepsodent smile and a never-ending social life come to mind when one thinks of a cheerleader. Despite rumors of all play and no work, cheerleading this year involved more than waving pompons.

The competition began for twenty-five to thirty hopefuls early in spring. All of the girls attended workshops after school where advisers helped them to improve their selfcomposed cheers, chants, and group cheers. Then in April those individuals deemed most qualified to lead the Berry fans prevailed through tryouts held in the gym with student council and homeroom representatives as judges. These ten became varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders.

Throughout football season each member of the squad defied nature by cheering in both blistering sun and chilling wind. But varsity member Sarah Myers related, "Even if the weather's bad, it's a pleasure to lead spirited Berry fans."

In November the girls and sponsor Kathy Obenchain selected six guys to cheer during the whole squad practiced to perfect basketball games. Twice a week after school pyramids, routines, and yells. Junior Tom Williams explained, "It's harder than it looks to get coordinated in one effort." Also, to ensure that the student body was coordinated in one effort, the cheerleaders organized several fan buses to away matches.

Finally, there's always the risk of an injury caused by performing difficult gymnastic feats. Fortunately, this year there were no serious injuries.

Sure students know what it's like to be a cheerleader ... sure they do.

ORGANIZATIONS

Wow! Math is fun

At 3:30 on the first Tuesday of every month in room 5217, Math Club members encountered a myriad of events: guest speakers, field trips, and contests. Violet Haas, an engineer at Purdue University, spoke about her profession following a ciphering match for candy in October. For their November and December meetings, the club traveled to a local jewelry store and the public library, respectively. There they discovered how mathematical principles aid professionals in accuracy and organization. May brought the customary calculator tournament. About 20 members competed for cash prized of $5, $10, and $15. Jim Woodworth won first place honors.

Officers included President Karen Hemberger, Vice-President Angela Willison, Secretary Liz McCleery, and Treasurer Jim Woodworth.

The dedication of Pep Squad members is evidenced by this solitary spirit banner which hung in the senior hall after the football victory over Lafayette Jeff.

Chicago revisited

The highlight of the year for Science Club members was traveling to the Science and Industry Museum in Chicago at Christmas. "The December trip is becoming somewhat of a tradition," stated Mr. Starkey, the club's advisor. In addition to exploring various science exhibits, students saw displays of Christmas trees from around the world. In January members utilized the lab for the annual experiment in alchemy as the club made candy canes. Monthly meetings included students' observing the stars and experimenting with the school's new robot arm, "Ralph." The club's activities ended in April with a trip to Memorial Hospital. There students explored the labs and learned emergency medical techniques.

Officers were President Chris Campbell, Vice-President Courtney Roberts, and Sec.-Treas. Jenny Jordan.

Spirited unite

The old adage "united we stand; divided we fall" held true for Berry boosters when Pep Club merged with Cheerblock to form the Pep Squad. Junior Anna Michael confirmed that the spirited students "coordinated efforts and pooled resources" to achieve "more effective results than last year."

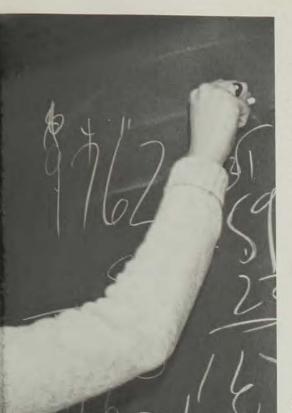

The squad's main objective, according to sponsor Bobbie Johnson, was to instigate school spirit. They did this by making banners that colored the walls of LHS. Each girl chose a sport and then painted encouraging slogans on massive white paper provided by the school's extra-curricular fund.

Junior member Marcia Pattengale concluded, "Being a member of the Pep Squad gave me a real sense of school patriotism. Now I stand for the Berries."

thetics whirled students into participants or fans. The grueling two to three hour workouts five days a week were looked upon by many Berries as only positive forces in making their teams more competitive and successful. "Whenever I was dissatisfied with my play, I wanted to go out on the field and push myself even more," stated senior football player Dan Couch. Such determination made all Berry teams successful, regardless of the final score.

Changes affected sports. The state's mandate regarding school time being used academically prevented athletes from practicing during the last period of the day. Also the tennis teams, the golf teams, and the baseball teams had to make schedule cuts because of new school regulations banning the early dismissal of athletic teams.

Berry pride prevailed, however, in spite of the changes. During the fall the football team posted impressive victories over perennial NCC rivals, Marion and Lafayette Jeff. The girls golf team once again advanced to state finals competition. The girls swim team produced two individual champions in senior Jenny Jordan and freshman Heidi Hendricks. Winter brought on the advent of Berry basketball fever. It was no letdown as both the boys and girls teams completed successful seasons. The always tough Wrestling team sent representatives to the state once again. The year rapidly spun by with the varsity Baseball team and the boys golf team advancing to regional competition in the spring.

Athletics played a large part in many Berries' lives. Senior basketball player Debbie Hickey commented, "It's so easy to become somewhat of a family when you're out there on the court together. It's a great feeling, and I'm glad that I put in the time to be a Berry athlete."

VARSITY

Mission Impossible comes true

Coach Don Baldini and the Berry squad brought respectability back to Logansport football. Even injury free, this year's team was small in number and size, but they played with the never-give-up attitude to which they committed themselves from the first day of summer.

The Berries opened the season with an overtime win over Peru's toughest team in many years. The Berries then fell short to the next four NCC teams: Anderson, New Castle, Richmond, and the new power, Kokomo. The Berries' second victory came on homecoming night against Marion when they went into overtime once again to win by a touchdown.

The team went on to win the next three games. They startled playoff-bound Lafayette Jeff by beating them to the punch. Up to this point, the Berries had not beaten Jeff in seven years or scored against them in three. The Berries wanted more, however, as they upset no. 1 ranked South Bend St. Joseph's in what Baldini described as "a classic football game that goes down in the history books." The Berries ended their exciting year by going up against Ft. Wayne Snider who was ranked fifth in the state at the beginning of the season. The Berries went into their third overtime of the season but lost a hard-fought battle to the touch Panthers.

For the Berries' outstanding defense, junior Matt Miller led the team with 110 tackles, set a school record with first contact of 50 times, and tied the record for fumble recoveries with three. Senior Dave Thomas had 98 tackles, followed by Dan Couch with 78. Dan Dickerson had four interceptions, and Tim Hollibaugh set a record with three deflected kicks.

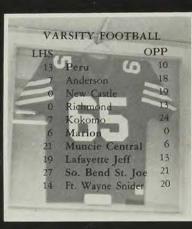

Offensively for the Berries, juniors Tom Williams rushed for 723 yards and Chris Rozzi for 476. Tom Parkevich had 25 receptions, 464 yards receiving, and five touchdown passes. Sam Bowyer set a record by punting 62 yards against New Castle.

Senior MVP lineman Gary Chambers was honored by being named to the All-State football squad. Senior Bob Rozzi was awarded the Jim Herron Award. Thomas, Miller, and Chambers received All NCC honors. The Berries finished the season 5-5, their best in three years.

The Berries' starting center Kyle Bitterling blocks for teammate Tom Williams against Kokomo. Williams averaged 6.02 yards in his 120 carries leading Logansport.

Defense holds JV Berrie 4-4

The Junior Varsity fell to one of Kokomo's two JV teams in their first game of the year. They came back to win their next two games by defeating Peru and Kokomo's second JV team. The Kokomo game revealed the hidden talents of the players as they won by a narrow margin of 8-7. The Berries won their final game of the season, beating Northwestern by a touchdown.

The Berries were led offensively by sophomore quarterback Brian Frantz, who passed for 530 yards, including six touchdown passes for one PAT pass. Brian Starkey rushed for 150 yards, followed by Ted Freidline who had 120 yards. Jay Drake had 12 catches on the season for 87 yards receiving.

The defense played tough all year. Freidline led the team with 40 tackles, followed by Chris LoCoco and Jim Kistler, both with 35. Mark McFatridge led the JV with two fumble recoveries. Junior Matt Chentnik had four interceptions, including three in one game against NCC counterpart Lafayette Jeff.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Frosh hit hard times

Broken bones, dislocations, and sprained ankles made a long season for the freshman Berries.

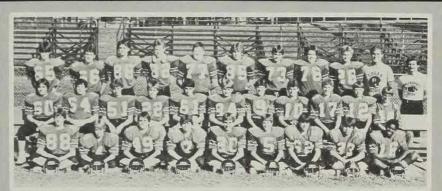

The Berries won their first two games against Delphi and Peru by a large margin. They then fell victim to their next five opponents to bring about a long, hard season. Although the Berries did come out on the short end of the score, the coaches thought that the players left with the knowledge and experience that would bring future benefit.

Offensively, Steve Gochenour was the top rusher with 319 yards, followed by Jeromey Brumett with 291. Quarterback Dan Frye passed for 131 yards with only three interceptions. Brumett was the leading scorer with 34 points, followed by Dennis Frye with 20.

Defensively, the freshmen summed up 520 tackles, five interceptions, and 12 fumble recoveries. Statistical leaders were Jeff Monroe with 55 tackles, Brad Van Horn with four fumble recoveries, and Rod Stovall with two interceptions.

Two state champs, team places third

Being champions was the goal of the girls swim team this season. That goal was fulfilled on November 17 when five girls walked away with places in the state finals, two of them state champions.

The girl swimmers proved to be the most powerful in the school's history. In dual meets the girls won consistently except for one disappointing loss to a wellbalanced West Lafayette team. In an exciting meet against Kokomo, the Berries pulled out a come-from-behind surge to win 88-84.

In the NCC Meet, Logansport finished second to reigning state champion Anderson but flourished many individual firsts. Among them were Jenny Jordan in the 200 IM and 100 Back, Heidi Hendricks in the 50 free and 100 Breast, and the 400 medley relay team of Jordan, Hendricks, Stacey Iles, and Krista Iles. Teri Manning also had a strong finish, placing fourth of twenty-one divers.

Logansport fell to Kokomo in the Sectional, 263-238. The team grabbed seven individual championships and many places but still came up short. Manning came through to win the diving competition for the girls.

The swimmers were now ready for the state finals in Indianapolis. The team tied for third with Columbus North behind winners Anderson and runners-up Elkhart Central. The girls' 400 medley relay team came through with a second place finish, only .8 of a second behind first place. Jordan placed third in the 100 Back, and won the 200 IM in 2:09.22, and Stacey Iles placed fifth in the same event and fourth in the 100 Free. Hendricks set two state records by winning both the 50 Free, 23.73 and the 100 Breast 1:07.34. Manning placed 20th in the diving competition.

The end of the season marked the end of four year standout and state champion Jenny Jordan and debuted a freshman state champion, Heidi Hendricks. Jordan and Hendricks combined to set five school records and three state championships. Coach Robin Beck, named NCC Coach of the Year, stated, "I am expecting another great season next year. With the attitude that these girls have and their determination, we can't lose. As for this year, we did it!"

After coming off last year's outstanding 18-8 record, Head Coach Ruth Bender commented, "It's going to be really tough to better our record; however, we'll have some good individuals to help us."

Those individuals included senior Michelle Ott who was named the team's MVP and also received All-NCC honors. Ott and juniors Anje Sands and Holly Courtad and sophomore Tami Greiner led the Berries in spiking. Senior Fay Sharp and junior Shelly Barrett were the top setters. Seniors Debbie Hickey and Julie Shafer proved their consistency by starting in all twenty four games.

During the season the girls competed in four tournaments. In the North Miami Invitational the Berries placed fourth; at Peru they ended third, and in the Clinton Central Tourney they brought home runner-up honors. Participating in the North Central Conference tourney, the girls finished in the same position as last year, a strong fourth. The girls defeated Marion for the second straight year, including the sectional finals, to finish 10-14.

Berries battle tough opposition

The netters went up against tough opposition throughout the season, such as semi-state participants West Lafayette and Marion, conference rival Kokomo, and the perennial power, Lafayette Jeff. However, some of the best battles took place on the Berry practice courts between All-North Central Conference player Jeff Ditmire and MVP Jeff Schirm, who battled it out for the #1 singles position throughout the year. "This is the kind of competition I am looking for in all of my players," stated Coach Ray Walter.

Junior Kelly Hendricks filled the #3 singles position, and senior Jeff Hallam and junior Dan Duffy comprised the #1 doubles team. Sophomore Ian Porter and freshman Mark Lapierre played #2 doubles for the regular season and sophs Scott Lindsey and David Dinger competed on the sectional team.

Competing in the Lafayette Jeff tourney, Ditmire won the #2 singles tourney and Hallam and Duffy were runners-up in #1 doubles. As a team the Berries placed a very strong second to Northwestern in the tourney. In the sectional, the team defeated four-time defending sectional champion Rochester, 4-1. In the second round Twin Lakes defeated the Berries 4-1, ending the Berries' season at 4-9.

Third straight finals; girls finish sixth

Starting the season with a highly touted seventh place ranking in the state, the girls' golf team was determined to better that rating. The Berries kept that promise at their third straight state finals appearance by finishing sixth.

The Berries had to make up for the graduation loss of Michelle Nicoll. Head Coach Mark Muehlhausen commented, "The younger girls filled in really well and kept us rated in the top ten all year." Seniors Shelly Sutton and MVP Karen Cook, juniors Stacey Sutton and Deb Padgett, and sophomore Liz Laing gave the team the depth needed to be a state contender. Cook's average of 43 was the best for the team.

The girls swung through their first two triple meets, burying their four opponents by over twenty strokes. They placed a strong fifth in the always tough Lafayette Jeff Invitational. One of the season's highlights included a 61 stroke trouncing of Bluffton.

Ten regular season wins were blemished only by two losses to conference rivals Marion and eventual state champs Lafayette Jeff. The girls recaptured the sectional, holding off a tough Northwestern team. In the regional the girls placed third, qualifying them for the state finals.

Senio: Karen Cook concentrates on a short putt for a birdie on the sixth green in the Sectional held at Dykeman Park.

Competing against Taylor, junior Deb Padgett tries to clear the ball out of the rough and onto the green.

Very young runners endured the spotlight of the varsity Cross Country team. The Berries enjoyed victories over Northwestern and Peru during the dual and triple meets. The team placed eighth in the Logan Invitational and came back to capture third in the Central Indiana Carnival.

The varsity mainly consisted of junior Tony Campbell, sophomores Chuck La-Dow, Chris Bowles, and freshmen Tony Graf, Monty Ream, and Milo Sutton. Graf, the #1 runner and MVP, captured 10th in the sectional, allowing him to advance to the regional where he placed 30th overall. The team came away with an eighth place finish in the sectional.

Susan Shepard performed in all four events as did Mary Warner; sophomores Teri Manning and Julie Sanders both competed on the vaults. Sabrina Culp completed as an all around gymnast, and freshman Denise Bryant performed on the beam, floor, and bars. The intermediate team consisted of junior Becky Bryant and sophomores Jamie Sanders, Brandy Keller, Carrie Berkshire, Heather Stilwell, Diane Russow, and Izzy O'Keeffe.

During the season, the Berries defeated West Lafayette and Harrison to improve their record. The Berries placed third in the Logan Invitational with a score of 86.15.

Seniors také charge

Nine returning seniors took full advantage of summer league play to prepare for the long road to sectional and tourney time. The Berries opened the season with a crushing victory over North White, and then traveled to fifth-ranked Muncie Central. The Bearcat game seemed to set the tone for the rest of the regular season. The Berries fought hard to defeat their top-ranked opponents but couldn't seem to get that extra point or two to put them over the top.

The team prepared for 14th-rated Kokomo during Christmas break. Despite these efforts the Wildcats came up the victor by one field goal. Commented Head Coach Phil Hershberger, "If we could get the whole team running on the same cylinder, then we are unbeatable." This statement proved correct as the Berries went on to defeat the state-ranked Lebanon Tigers by six points, and then dumped Wabash by twenty-six points.

Leading the Berries in scoring were senior Steve Blackford and junior Steve Lambert pouring in over ten points per game. Senior Bob Rozzi averaged 9.7 points per game but had to leave the squad due to injuries. Aiding the Berries was the rebounding talents of seniors Sam Bowyer and Eric Miller who averaged over four rebounds per game.

The regular season came to an end on a good note with a decisive victory over Rochester. In the first game of Sectional play, Logansport was pitted against the Pioneer Panthers.

Driving toward the basket, Steve Blackford escapes from a Kokomo Wildcat.

JV BASKETBALL

Juniors dominate

Five juniors returned for the JV, allowing them a team comprised of experienced players. "The JV was much more experienced and their record proved that," stated Coach Bill Titus.

Playing both JV and varsity ball, John Nies, Dan Duffy, and Mike Farrell led the Berries in scoring. Other regular starters included Scott Baumgardner, Tracy Myers, John Bingaman, and Dave Murphy.

Starting the season by winning seven of their first eight games, the Berries went on to beat highly-touted Muncie Central by two points. In the NCC, the Berries improved upon their 1-7 record from the 1983-84 season, ending the season with a 2-6 slate.

Foundations formed

Coach Ron Kinneman's job is to look toward the future of LHS basketball. "I like to think of that while these freshmen go through their year. They all get something valuable out of it," stated Kinneman.

The A-team was led by the consistent scoring of Ed Skelton, Danny Frye, and Wade Gault averaging 8, 7.5, and 7 points per game, respectively. They showed signs of greatness beating such powerhouses as Marion Gold and Northwestern and finishing the season with a 7-10 mark. In the Benton Central Tourney the Berries were knocked out in the first round.

For the B-team, Berries they finished a successful year with a 6-5 record. They were led in scoring by Rodney Stovall, Ken Henderson, Brad Hainje, and Tim Fox. They topped such teams as rivals Lewis Cass and Pioneer, along with Kokomo Blue throughout the year.

Hickey leads Lady Berries

Coach Jan Blackburn had to build a team with only one returning senior on the girls basketball team but knew he "would have no problem due to the talent and depth of the underclassmen." Coach Blackburn stated, "Their accomplishments this year came as a result of their hard work before and during the season."

The Lady Berries consisted of junior forward Anje Sands who was second leading in scores with 10 points per game and 5 rebounds, junior center Susan Thomas who was second in rebounding with a 5 board per game average, sophomores Tami Greiner at forward who lead the Berries in both scoring and rebounding with 13.3 points per game and 10.9 rebounds a contest, guard Liz Laing who lead in assists, and the only senior on the team, Debbie Hickey, who was the team's long range shooter.

The Berries weren't discouraged when they lost by only a few points to their first two opponents because they came back to win their next four in a row, including a one point win over NCC rival Marion in an exciting game. Logansport won the 4-Way Holiday Tourney to boost the team's record and spirit. During the halfway mark, the Lady Berries began seesawing back and forth while experiencing injuries and new game plans. The Berries went into the NCC facing tough teams. The hoopers beat New Castle to take them up against Marion, who won 53-37. Logansport came back to capture sixth in the NCC by defeating Marion in their final round. A big disappointment came to the favored Berries in the Sectional. Logan benched Maconaquah in the first round. Surprisingly, in the second game of the tournament, North Miami upset the Berries to end the season for them with a winning record of 12-8. gained him state wide notoriety.

Year of the Grappler

Coach Joe Patacsil has spawned one of the best wrestling teams Logansport has ever had at LHS. Not only did the 1984-85 team go undefeated in regular season, but they also captured the NCC title, won the sectional and regional, sent four wrestlers to the semi-state and two to the state.

The Berries started the season with six senior members who carried the thirteenmember squad. The varsity consisted of seniors Brad Frantz (126), Jim Selvio (132), Jeff Wilson (145), Tom Parkevich (155), Jeff Azbell (177), Dennis Settlemyre (185), juniors Tony Magna (112), Rodney Williams (138), Craig Jones (HW), sophomores Troy Kitchel (98), Chuck Ladow (105), Ted Freidline (167), and freshman Steve Gochenour (119).

In regular season the grapplers cruised through their meets with considerable ease. They won their first meet by beating Northwestern, 49-18. Logan went undefeated in dual meets as well as in the Kokomo and Culver Triple Duals. The Berries' only disappointment of the season came in the North Central Tourney where they captured third, the same as last year. The wrestlers dominated their final match of the year by pinning Peru to a remarkable score of 70-6.

The grapplers then headed to New Castle for the NCC meet. As defending champions, the Berries were under pressure to keep their title. At the end of the day, the wrestlers proved to be flawless under tight situations as they walked away with the NCC trophy. The Berries had six individual champions: Ladow, Magna, Frantz, Selvio, Parkevich, and Settlemyre. Logan came in first as a team, followed by runner-up Muncie Central and host New Castle at third. The Berries tied the school record by having six champions at one time.

In tournament play the Berries got off to a good start by running away with the sectional and winning the regional by a half point. Frantz captured second place in the semi-state, qualifying for the state for a second consecutive year. Kitchel placed fourth to advance to the semistate as well.

BOYS SWIMMING

Future splash

The boys swim team had a tough season this year with only two victories but turned into a threat in the sectional and broke a few school records. Coach Kathy Remley commented, "I've really enjoyed coaching the boys team this year. I know they'll be tough in the future."

With a record of 1:00.54 in the 200 I.M., Eric Binney broke the school record three times and combined with Kelly Hendricks, Matt Skelton, and Shannon Closson to break the 400 freestyle relay record. The team did exceptionally well in the sectional by placing in many events to rack up points. The Berries' finest show appeared when they dunked the Delphi Oracles by 114-59.

Maw advances

Senior standout Lori Maw became the first girl netter to advance to the State Singles Regional Finals in Indianapolis. Maw reached the finals by capturing the singles sectional over Caroline Krummel of Mississinewa and then winning her first round of the regional before losing in the finals. Maw, the team's MVP, was not the only player to compile an outstanding record. Both doubles teams finished with 9-3 records. The number one doubles team of senior Suzi Bunnell and junior Michelle Ott won the Peru Doubles Tourney. Senior Patty Baker and sophomore Holly Courtad comprised the number two team. The Berries' number two singles player senior Jody Humes ended 7-5. Junior Stephanie Smith filled the number three position.

Underclassmen spark Berries

This year's sluggers encountered their shaky moments. The Berries faced the season with underclassmen to fill the shoes of last year's semi-state qualifiers. However, the Berries showed no sign of deficiency as they battled NCC Richmond, New Castle, and Anderson to come out on top midway through the season. The Berries fared well with this year's state champions, Marion. Although the score of 3-10 showed a loss for the Berries, the motivation and determination of the players showed more than the outcome of the numbers on the board.

In regular season play, sophomore John Nies led the Berries' batting attack with an average of .368, followed by Brett Wood with a .354, and Jerry Snider with .351. Scott Schwering was the team's top pitcher with an ERA of 2.43 followed by Tony Firmani, who had a 4.59 mark on the season. The team's total pitching was summed up with an ERA of 3.77.

In tournament action the Berries captured the sectional crown by blowing by Peru 4-3, Lewis Cass 22-4, and shutting out Caston in the final game, 8-0. This brought the Berries to face Northwestern at the Logansport Regional. The game was packed with excitement as the Berries fought hard, only to come out on the short end of the stick with a Northwestern victory of 8-4. Disappointment came to the hearts of those who would be back for the upcoming season. "I feel that we had a successful baseball season," said Assistant Coach Butch Jones, "considering the fact that we had to fill some key positions with underclass inexperience."

Junior varsity baseball got off to a promising start with five consecutive wins. Scott Anspach led the team with a batting average of .442, followed by Mike Farrell and Dave Murphy who were over .400. Farrell went undefeated with a pitching record of 3-0, followed by Dan Greiner who was 4-1 for the season. The team had a total of 137 hits and held their opponents to a total of 88.

The Berries ended the season with an 11-5 record. Though Coach Rich Wild claimed that he was "a little displeased with the defense," he also noted that the freshmen contributed intensely to the team, and "the sophomores gave good leadership in key positions."

The linksmen wound up the season with a winning record of 8-4 and a ninth of fifteen in the regional. The season was hard fought with a fifth place in the NCC to prove it.

One highlight of the year was a second place finish in the sectional led by Don Boocher and Jim Marlott, who both had a score of 78. The Berries were edged by the powerhouse Rochester, 309 to 316.

Jim Marlott led the Berries throughout the season with an average of 82, followed by Rob Keller, who averaged an 83. John Davidson, Chad Dalton and Boocher were close behind to round out the varsity. With a season low of 73, Keller was named MVP, and Marlott was awarded the coveted Mickey Dermigio Award for mental attitude.

Five longstanding records were shattered during the track season. Four year letterman and MVP, Bill Taylor now holds the record in the 200-meter dash with a time of 22.5 seconds. Senior Tom Werst succeeded in breaking the record for the 800-meter run with a 1:59.3 time. In the 300 hurdles, sophomore Chris Minneman set the record of 39:72. The new shuttle hurdle relay team record of 1:04.9 was set by Steve Sims, Scott Ridenour, Mark Wolfe, and Minneman. The final record was set in the 4 by 800 relay by Scott Kitchel, Steve Lambert, Sims, and Werst at 8:31.9.

The Berries placed a very strong second at the CMA Relays, scoring 97 points. In the NCC, Logansport improved two places to the sixth position. Senior Gary Clayton was awarded the Best Field Event trophy, and Sims won the Best Runner award.

"As a team we were weak, but as individuals, we highly succeeded," stated junior Rhonda Baldwin.

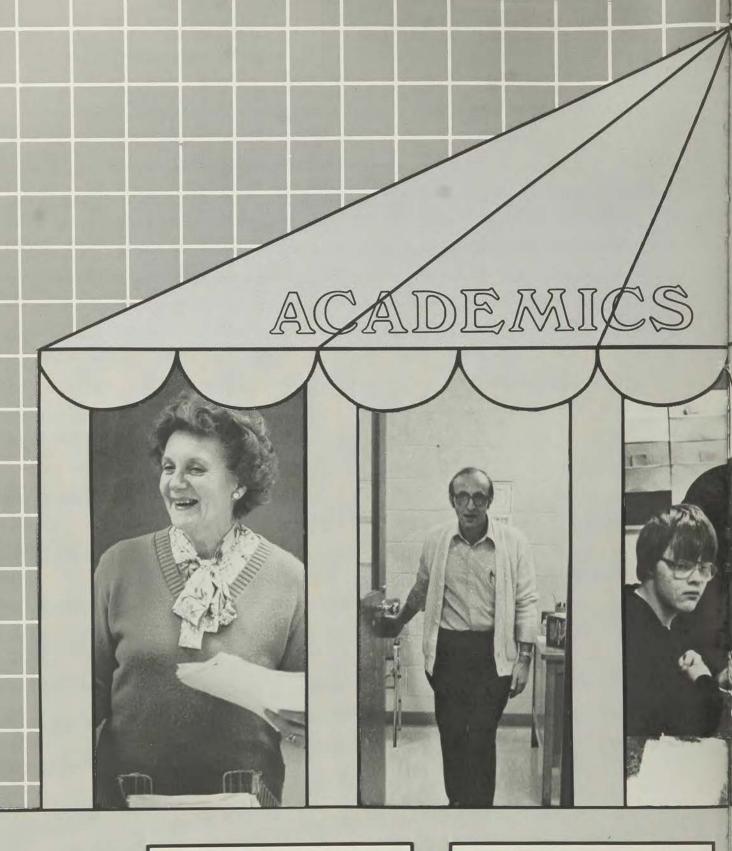

The Berries could only manage a tie this season, losing seven meets; however, individuals such as senior Kim Briggs advanced to personal bests. Briggs placed second in the state in the 1600-meter run with a time of 5:06. She had captured the regional with a new record of 5:00. Junior Christy Baker fared well all season in the shot put, and senior Charlene Hunt was the top discus thrower. The 400-meter relay team of Mary Warner, Tami Greiner, Lisa Kline, and Heather Castell placed fifth in the sectional. Senior Andrea Miller placed fifth in the 300-lowhurdles in the sectional also. "The thirtynine girls were greatly improved," commented Head Coach Diane Ruhl, "They strived for team and personal improvements all year. I'm very pleased with their overall performances.'

he whirlwind of students whizzing from class to class the first week of school left faculty and administration in a headspin. The longer day, consisting of seven periods, caused classes to be shortened by five minutes. This change in time threw everyone off, leaving teachers and students questioning, "When is this period over?" Though the change was seemingly trivial, it did affect some classes that required the full 50 minutes as in the past. "Tve had to rework almost all my experiments to give the students adequate time to complete them in one class period," stated chemistry teacher Ray Kizer. Industrial art, home economics, and art classes were affected as well. Getting students tested for CPR in health and safety and family health during the shortened periods proved to be trying on teachers and Fire Chief Bob McBride who helped with the CPR certifications.

Time changes weren't the only cause of confusion at the beginning of the year. The movement of administrative offices and teachers' classrooms could be attributed to many mind-spinning mysteries. "I guess it makes sense to have the Dean in the main office, but it's (the Dean's office) always been downstairs," commented senior Kim Howell after a mad search to obtain a blue pass from the Dean of Students, Mrs. Janet Bowyer.

Mr. Cecil Mason's and Miss Kathy

Obenchain's classrooms were relocated within the Social Studies Department upon the retirement of Mrs. Juanita Hunter and the hiring of Mr. Robert Shovlin and Mr. Carl Gilstrap. For the first time seniors didn't have the fret of having Mr. John Marocco for psychology and government in the same semester as Mr. Harvey Roberts took over all the Government classes.

Job skills developed

Mr. Mike Smith, head of the Pre-Vocational Education Department (PVE), said that the main goals of PVE were to help students "develop skills needed to find and keep a job." In these classes, state-required courses such as English and math were covered as well as work in on-campus sites such as the bookbindery and the cafeteria. The program was in its fourteenth year at LHS and had over sixty students.

Mrs. Bobbi Johnson, a PVE teacher for ten years, said that the reason she enjoyed teaching PVE was because she "enjoyed the personal relationships that had developed over the years." Mr. Ron Kinnaman, a three-year teacher, stated that he thought teaching PVE was "a very rewarding job." He commented, "It is more of a challenge to help kids who find it more difficult to learn on their own."

Pre-Vo emphasizes potential

Pre-Vocational (or Pre-Vo, as teacher Dennis Long preferred to call the class) was vocationallyoriented with supervised work activities. The program, unique in the state, was in its third year.

Five basic areas were emphasized: functional academics, independent living skills, job simulation, health, and socialization. Mr. Long stated that the program tried to cover every area of life. He stressed that no matter what the student's handicap is, "we still want these students to achieve their potential." He added, "We want them to live happy and productive lives, and so we give them all the skills to do so."

The program was run according to state and federal guidelines. When the students graduated, they received a certificate rather than a diploma.

Mr. Long, with the assistance of a tape re-corder, helps Dan Maloy with his reading skills.

Making students feel comfortable in freshman speech class is a vital part of Mr. B.J. Siefert's teaching tactics.

Angela Willison seeks help from Mr. Weaver in the writing of a sonnet in senior English.

Third-year French student Steve Gwin consults Mrs. Shilling about a translation from the text. Both English and foreign language classes had new textbooks.

English takes new format

English classes were split into three categories: reading disabilities, middle level, and upper track. Students in the reading disabilities program rotated after every twelve weeks. Mrs. Reynolds helped these students with writing skills; Ms. Daniels, reading; and either Mr. or Ms. Siefert, oral communication. Ms. Daniels said the new program seemed to work well, "but we won't know the full effect for five years or more."

The middle level classes were about the same as English classes had been in the past. The middle track was "what we've traditionally taught," according to English Department Head Joe Weaver.

The upper level classes did much more reading than in the past. For instance, Mr. Wild's freshmen read The Odyssey and Mr. Weaver's seniors, Don Quixote, both new requirements. According to Mr. Wild, this new system "seems to be the best arrangement we've had in years."

Foreign language enrollment up

There was an increase in the number of students who took foreign language classes. Some of the increase, according to guidance counselor Bruce Stuart, may be the emphasis colleges are placing on languages. "Most of the colleges in Indiana require at least two years of a language to graduate," he said. "Therefore, it is beneficial for students to have had a foreign language before entering college." The extra period in the school day may also have allowed more students to work an elective into their schedules.

Students learned about the culture of these countries in a variety of ways. Latin classes had a Roman breakfast in November, consisting of cheese, honey, raisins, and grapejuice. German classes tasted imported "Gummi Bears," a German candy, and listened to German records. Spanish classes saw movies about Spain and Central America, and Mrs. Shilling escorted 11 students to France in the summer of '84 for an eight-day tour of Paris and the northern countryside.

EL-TJP-WA earns honors

Each spring EL-TIP-WA Area Vocational School (named for the Eel, Tippecanoe, and Wabash Rivers) sends students to the VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) U.S. Skill Olympics competition. The nationwide event includes students in craft and leadership areas. The top four students in each regionally held category qualify to go to the state competition. The contests are divided into two divisions: vocational skills such as welding, nurses aide, orderly, or auto mechanics; and leadership skills such as prepared speech, job interview, or club business procedures.

Beth Keller won first place in prepared speech at the state competition held May 5, 1984, at Ivy Tech in Indianapolis. Gary Fox won first place honors in carpentry, and Dorine Richards in nurses aide/orderly. David Cody won second place in extemporaneous speaking; Chris Richey, nurses aide/orderly. Cody also placed third in nurses aide/orderly. Tammy Galbreath, Robert Hunt, Mike Miller, Joyce Schnieb, Trish Schrum, and Bonnie Lane also received honors at the regional competition held at Tucker Area Career Center in Marion, Indiana, in the spring of 1984.

In addition to the competition, an evaluation committee composed of several instructors and Director Don Grostefon selected Chris Richey as the Outstanding Vocational Student of 1984. Attendance at EL-TIP-WA is emphasized because of its importance in the world of work. At the end of the year, awards were presented to those students with perfect attendance records.

Substance Abuse visits Longcliff

Mr. Jim Ridenour's substance abuse class, now in its third year, studied the physical and psychological effects of drugs on the human body. The class took a trip to the Logansport State Hospital on November 14. Students visited the Drug and Alcohol Ward, and patients shared their experiences with them.

Foods offers culinary treats

The new advanced foods class experimented throughout the year with yeast breads, soups, ketchups, jellies, and lobsters. The 17 members of Mrs. KaAnn Lord's class also spent time on foreign meals, cake decorations, and careers in food services.

Physical Education sees changes

Physical education was among the many academic changes this year. Freshmen earned full credit by taking gym every day during the freshman year. Sophomores, who earned half of the full credit during their freshman year, were split into two groups, and each group had gym for one semester. The new system was designed to give students more opportunities to take other classes. Mrs. Sue Rothgeb and Mr. Don Baldini again taught the classes.

Hit the road, sophs

Last year saw young drivers wearily dragging themselves to school at 7:30 a.m. This year all driver's training classes were held during school. Groups were divided into nine students per instructor during each period. Students had classroom instruction on Wednesday and alternated driving on the other days. Instructors for the course were Mr. Dale Sullivan, Mr. Joe Patacsil, and Mr. Jim Turner.

Students test computer skills

St. Joseph's College was the site of a computer programming contest in which four computer science students participated. On December 1 instructor Steve Clary, senior Tom Erickson, and juniors Chris Hood, Jim Woodworth, and Scott Bailey traveled to Rennselear where they were allowed thirty minutes to become familiar with the system and then had three hours to solve six problems.

According to Mr. Clary, the team did not finish first or second, but they did obtain the highest score of all teams on one of the six problems. He estimated that the team finished fourth out of the eight teams. No complete results were given. Mr. Clary stated, "The students seemed to enjoy the contest very much and gained valuable experience in problem solving and working with a new computer system." After the contest students were given a tour of the campus and returned to the computer center for a discussion on networking systems and telecommunications.

Computer science students were also active in a contest held at LHS on December 5th. Jenny Jordan, Jeff Ditmire, Dave Methner, Courtney Roberts, Tony Scagnoli, Dan Dickerson, Jeff Hallam, Tom Erickson, Ed Zimmerman, and Mike Martin participated in the National Knowledge Bowl Master Open. This competition was similar to the LHS Challenge Bowl, but the 200 questions came from a larger range of topics such as geology and opera. Points were awarded for correctness, speed, and accuracy. Of the 300 schools participating, the average score was 1251. The LHS team scored 1325. According to Mr. Clary the purpose of the contest was to help promote the recognition of academic excellence.

And the band played on

The Berry band boasted 173 members, the largest group in the school's history. The band brought home over 100 medals, two thirds of which were gold, from solo and ensemble district and State contests. They also had several members in All-State Band.

The band performed pre-game and half-time shows at all of the home football and basketball games. Tim Cahalan, director, stated that one of the unique things about the band is that they performed 25 times together as a group. They presented three concerts: the Christmas Concert on December 16, the Winter Band Concert in February, and The Hour of Music in April.

Sing out loud, sing out strong

"This year's choir has a strong, mature sound," commented director Tim Cahalan. The 195-member choir included only 20 seniors. Two seniors, Beth Bradshaw and Sharon Smith, were selected as members of the All-State Choir, which performed in October. The freshman choir boasted 94 members. These members indicate that "next year's choir will be even larger," according to Cahalan.

The choir performed gospel and contemporary music in the elementary and middle schools, nursing homes, special school convocations and for two concerts, the Hour of Music and the Christmas Concert. During the Christmas season the choir caroled in the school's hallways. The group performed with ten other schools at a choral festival in Rochester in March.

Second year for AP History

The advanced history class, in its second year, was designed to "prepare the academically-oriented, primarily college-bound student with an adequate background in American history," according to the class' instructor, Mr. Cecil Mason. The class' 24 students were frequently split into smaller seminar groups, which, according to Mason, "forced the individual to become involved."

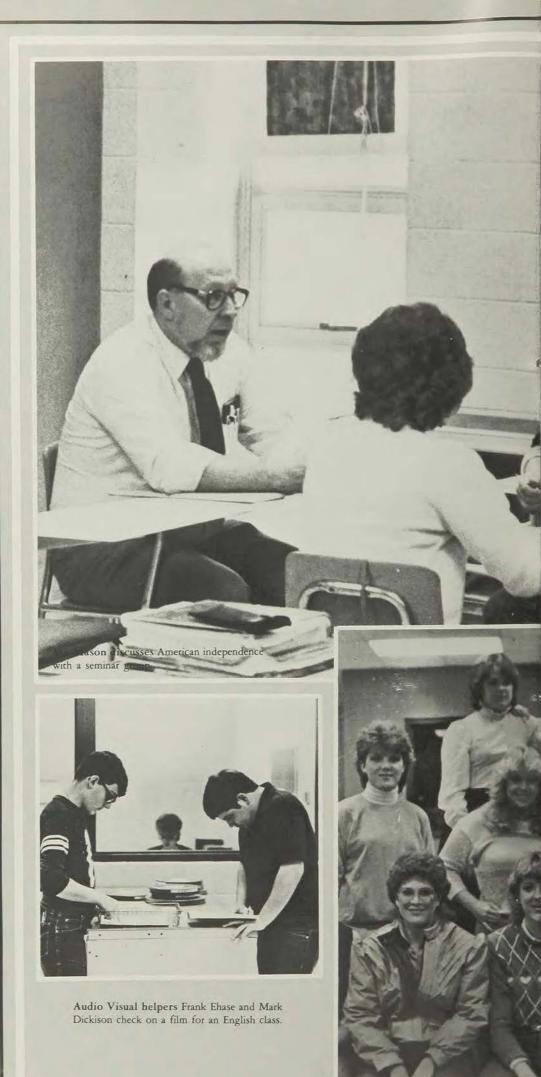

As an incentive for students, the class was based on a five-point grading scale. That is, an A was worth five points instead of four. The class included essay exams, objective tests, and a research paper the second semester. Mr. Mason expected every student to make a C or better; otherwise, he or she would be evaluated and possibly placed in a regular history class.

Students studied not only historical events but also intellectual and interpretive history, i.e., the causes and the philosophies of the people involved. The class was assigned longer and more difficult reading, but according to Courtney Roberts, the class was "a real challenge."

AV presents Mrs. Dickerson

Watching films was a part of almost every class. Last year alone there were 1,357 films shown in LHS classes. Whether it was an engineering film for Mr. Rice, a writing skills film for Mrs. Guckien, or a speech film for Mr. Siefert, the Audio Visual Department was responsible for making all of the arrangements with Wabash Valley Film Center.

The AV secretary, Mrs. Dickerson, was in charge of processing films, typing catalog cards, and making copies of papers for teachers. Mrs. Dickerson was also secretary to the AV Coordinator, Mr. Siefert, and to the school librarian, Mrs. Shinabarger. Mrs. Dickerson was aided by seven students: Chris Bundy, Jim Stuber, Mark Dickison, Frank Ehase, Mike Fry, Ron Blazauskas, and Paulette Meacham, who delivered and picked up films.

The living is easy

Being a principal is like leading an orchestra, according to former LHS principal Hugh Leeman; you have to conduct the teachers, the students, and the community into a harmonizing chorus. Before coming to Logansport, Leeman was principal at Lewis Cass High School for two years. He says his years at Lewis Cass were the first after the consolidation. He commented, "It was pleasurable working for a new school." Leeman revealed, though, that he liked LHS best of all. "I enjoyed working with the students and staff there," he said.

Leeman retired early because he wanted to take time out to do things while he and his wife, Emmy, were still in good health. The two have made much of their time already. They went to Greece for three weeks in September. His goal in life, Leeman says, is to retain his feeling of satisfaction.

Teachers learn computer techniques

For three-day sessions in November and December, teachers' roles were reversed to that of students' as teachers were requested to attend computer sessions funded by the State. The sessions were held in lecture hall 7104 in a temporary computer lab. Different experts presided over the classes which taught the teachers about software. "I found the classes on computer technology informative and interesting. I plan to use computers in figuring my semester grades," stated Aja Hollon, English teacher. The classes posed a few headaches for the administration, however, as they found substitutes throughout the sessions.

Board President resigns

School Board President Jane Wildman was forced to resign on January 14 due to the illness of her husband. Wildman was elected to the Board in 1982 to serve a four year team. Former Vice-President Carol Rhodes became acting president until the annual reorganizational meeting in the summer. Dr. Gary Miller was unanimously selected from 15 applicants to fill the term of Wildman. Miller told the Board members during his interview that the curriculum was his main concern.

Dr. Charles Dilg also resigned in January but his resignation did not take effect until June. Dr. Dilg was assistant superintendent of schools for twelve years.

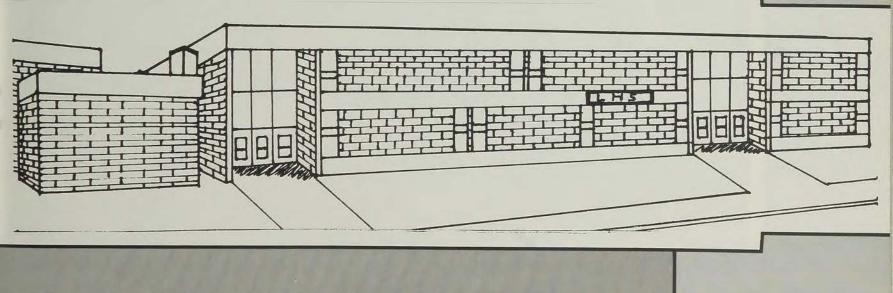

LHS hears a new ring

Logansport Community School System purchased a phone system from Executone for $54,188. This system replaced the dial phones with push button and connected the high school with the administration building.

The system was purchased, according to Dr. Randall Mauck, because the phone rates were increasing. Charles Hardy and Associates from Indianapolis were asked to evaluate the cost of a new system. According to Hardy, the system will pay for itself in six years.

Brandt relocates

The Main office missed a friendly face, that of Mrs. Nancy Brandt's. Mrs. Brandt was the receptionist before being moved in May 1984 to her current assignment as receptionist in the administration building. There she is the main operator of the new telephone system.

The system connects the high school with the administration building through 75 phones on ten phone lines. Mrs. Brandt handles, on an average, 300 calls a day. She commented that she has received prank calls, including bomb threats. Mrs. Brandt has worked for the Logansport School Corporation for eight years.

The lady with the answers

Mrs. Deb Richards' official title is secretary to the principal, but she serves as Mr. Williams' secretary as well. "Her accuracy and efficiency have been of great assistance to me this first year at LHS," commented Mr. Bill Pfister. Mrs. Richards works year round at such tasks as typing the incoming freshmen's personal records and the outgoing seniors' transcripts, assuming the duties of receptionist and/or records clerk in Mrs. Herron's or Mrs. Sherman's absence, and recording the attendance of faculty and staff.

The announcements were read over the intercom this year by Mrs. Deb Richards.

Priceless Pearl

Pearl Speitel, one of the school's fourteen custodians, is responsible for the first floor of wing seven. Among other unpleasant tasks like scraping gum from desk tops, Pearl swept floors, washed chalkboards, and cleaned windows. She and other custodians stayed late at times to clean rooms occupied by eleven evening classes.

A member of the faculty for five years, Pearl is the adopted mother of the Tattler staff.

When the lunch hour begins at 11:00, she becomes the type A lunch line cashier. Between shifts she takes care of the condiment table and washes pans. Her day ends at 1:00. Margaret commented, "Even though the work is sometimes strenuous and tiring, I enjoy becoming familiar with the many faces of the LHS students."

Pride and skill and friendliness, Wrath and wisdom and delight, Are shining still, but shining less, And clouded to the common sight. Time will show them clear again. Time will give us other men With names to write in burning gold When they are great and we are old, But when these were royal-hearted, rare Memory keeps with loving care Deeds they did and tales they told. But living men are hard to spare.

Berries are back

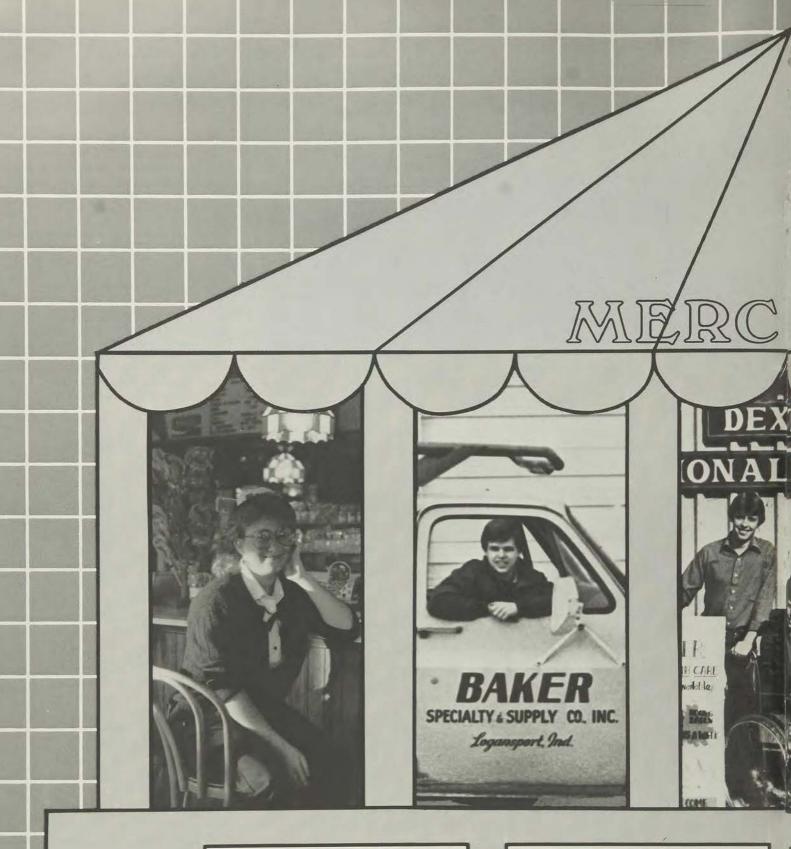

"As soon as I graduate, I'm getting out of this town." This affirmation seems to be common among students everywhere. But 28 LHS teachers have returned to the school from which they graduated. Many teachers, like English teachers Carolyn Killion and Deb Rivard, said they returned because they enjoyed being students here. Math Department Chairman Jack Rice commented that "LHS is a well-run school with lots of good kids in it." When asked what changes they had noticed since they were students, these teachers gave the Tattler a variety of answers, some of which follow:

Marjorie Bishop: "Everyone wore skirts – now they wear mostly jeans."

Lee Gaumer: "First, more classes to choose from and second, many more discipline problems."

Jim Ridenour: "New building, new students, and the girls now call the boys." Michael Smith: "School is not the focal point of a teenager's lives as it once was. Students appear not to look upon the school as a "family or community setting" but only as a place to go to class and quickly leave."

Bruce Stuart: "New building, much larger curriculum, larger student body, more activities (especially plays), more sports teams, and a better yearbook."

S tudents were caught up in the whirlwind of the business world as they tried to decide where to go for a Coke or Pepsi, buy their school clothes, stereos and walkmans, or even a birthday card. Logansport had a carousel of friendly, courteous, and generous merchants. "I think that the quality of goods and services that Logansport businesses produce are second to none," commented senior Julie Sutton. This kind of Logansport pride kept students, faculty, and staff members supporting their hometown merchants wholeheartedly.

Logansport had its share of fast food chains, yet locally-owned food services thrived nonetheless. Berries especially kept Eastend restaurants busy throughout the weekday lunch hours. "Everyday at lunchtime we always fight about where we are going to eat," stated senior Betsy Brown, "but when I'm driving, we always go to Noble Romans." Mr. Happy Burger, B & K East, and Sycamore Drive-In were favorites among Berries as well.

Fashion-conscious students counted on many fine stores at the Mall, Cass Plaza, and downtown Logansport for clothes in the latest fashions. Logansport's oldest department store, The Golden Rule, closed in May.

Those Berries who saved their hardearned money for college tuition received good interest rates and dependable service from many Logan area banks, credit unions, and savings and loan companies. Industries flourished troughout the Loganland area as Wilson's, Switches Rockwell, and Elco labored to increase production as the economy rose. From local beauty salons to hardware store students were proud of their parents' hard work and dedication that upheld the tradition of excellence associated with Logansport merchants.

It was simply marvelous ell, for us, the overloaded, overworked, and overindulged twentyseven staffers, or should I say six, we are now out of a job. Yes, already! It's out with the once new and improved staff and in with a new crop. It seems like only yesterday when Angel's basement was spinning with top-secret, official Ed meetings, every night! We came prepared for an awesome year. With help from Court, we developed expert water-balloon skills during our summer vacation at Manchester College. Between food fights, escaping the tornado by skating in Ft. Wayne, and buying out Hook's stock of rubber balls and squirt guns, we fought off the Vogue girls again and stole every award possible, right Giggles? When the school year rolled 'round we were ready for our rubber band fights, our "tacky" wars, and all of Kyle's jelly paintings. I think there's mold in there! Oh well, ha, ha. It was an up and down year. Memory will never be kind enough to let us forget our first deadline. What else could have gone wrong? The Notre Dame Library could have been closed, we could have gotten our spot color taken away, or the door could have been locked! Tattler life opened up many new horizons to each. The most common horizons included apathetic tendencies, tremendous work-loads, loss of social life, head-dives in grade point average, and long weekends. That's all right, because we enjoyed having workshops for only three people at the most every Sunday of the year. Those workshops weren't all in vain. We gained from thought-provoking gossip, but mainly from an overdose of calories and KK's cooking. Why all of the fuss over a book? Ask yourself this question ten years from now. This was our year together as a Tattler family. From our themeselecting party to our Christmas party to our tearshedding good-bye party in the spring, we were a family, different as individuals, yet unified as a staff. Looking back at it all now, we can honestly say that it was indeed marvelous, simply marvelous! How far is it to Clarksville, anyway? Oh, never mind, we'll find out in May.

Through the Year

Days of sunshine, times of sorrow, Fill our yesterdays, todays, and tomorrows.

Years gone by filled with memories sh Of occasions lived, and of friends we cared.

Whirling 'bout now, we seek life's pleasures, By living each day, we gain lasting treasures.

Our days spin by with increasing speed, Leaving hope for the days we've yet to lead.

> — Jeff Ditmire Angela Willison

It was an up and down year. We spun through the changes created by new school administrators, a longer school day, and limited in-school activities. However, those regulations did not tarnish the spirit of LHS as it went 'round. Whirling amidst the year, many found that LHS offered them just what they needed. Students and faculty grasped onto memories of the year, as they might grasp the golden ring of the carousel. The music of the carousel created a rhythm characterized by an overtime homecoming victory, two state champion girl swimmers, and sell-out crowds for the Winter Fantasy. Days were shared by friends in life's simple pleasures such as walking to class together or joining one another at lunchtime. We remember our spare time, or lack of. Memories of jobs we've held and of activities in which we've participated remind us of happy, and yet sometimes stressful times. As the music drew to a close, undergraduates eagerly jumped from the carousel of school life, knowing it would all begin again in the fall. But 263 seniors rode out the last turn until the carousel came to a rest on June 1. These students dismounted, ready to seek elsewhere for their future golden rings. These days will spin through our minds as nostalgic memories as we go 'round and 'round all through our lives.

The 1985 Tattler Staff would like to extend their gracious thanks to Principal William Pfister, Assistant Principal Gene Williams, Yearbook Representative Jim Beckham, and our Yearbook In-Plant Consultant Valerie Allison for all their help, cooperation, and understanding throughout the year. Special thanks go to Steve Sumners and Tom Amiot for their complimentary photos, and to professional photographr Rich Voorhees for making a large part of this book what it is. Thanks are extended to Burgman and Harrington Studios. Our unending thanks go to Pearl Speitel for caring so much about us and always helping out in pinches. In the warmest way we wish to express our love to Mrs. Debra Rivard for her open-mindedness to our ideas and imaginations, her patience when we were lacking it, and just for being herself. With complete faith and trust in her, she led us to our ultimate goal; an everlasting book with unforgettable memories.

The 78th Volume of the Logansport High School Tattler was printed by Jostens/American Yearbook Company in Clarksville, Tennessee. All copy is Garamond style. Headlines are of various sizes of Garamond style except Windsor Outline on the Division pages, Davida in the Album, Maximus in the Organizations, Serif Gothic Outline in Athletics, Lydian Cursive in the Academics, and various styles in the Merchants. The Carousel logo was designed by Jeff Ditmire. Greg Abbott drew the carousel animals in the index, and Chris Rozzi drew the cameras in the Album section and the artwork on this page. Pictures taken by professional photographer Rich Voorhees include the cover, some opening features, organization group shots, some athletic candids, and closing. The 1100 copies of this book were published on eighty pound gloss paper.
